Mayor, council among defendants

City is sued for secret meeting

ANP Staff Writer

A lawsuit was filed Tuesday yesterday) in Wayne County Circuit Court by a Romulus businessman charging that the city violated the Open Meetings Act by holding a secret meeting Aug. 31.

The suit further charges that those present, including the mayor, council members, clerk and treasurer, discussed erasing the tape at the end of the session.

Filing the suit was Ed Rush, who operates Rush Flowers. His suit named as defendants: Mayor William M. Oakley, all members of the city council, Clerk Leonard J. Folmar and Treasurer Helen Gallien.

Contacted by the Roman, Rush said a memo from the mayor dated

Aug. 25 informed elected city officials and others of the meeting scheduled for Aug. 31 in the early evening. The memo, he said, stated the session was being called to discuss continued attempts by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME) to unionize employes at city hall over the last few months.

But, he said, his suit accuses the defendants of discussing other subjects, namely the city water and sewer bond funds and the annual city audit. His suit contends discussion of subjects not stated in the original notice violates the state's Open Meetings Act.

In addition, he said, notice of the meeting was not posted in city hall 18 hours in advance of the meetings as specified in provisions of the act.

"I talked to the deputy clerk," Rush said, "and she didn't know on the day of the meeting that it was going to be held.'

Rush said he went to the clerk's office Sept. 5 to listen to the taped minutes of the Aug. 31 meeting. He said he was interrupted part way through by Oakley and Gallien and stopped from listening to the remainder of the taped session.

"They told me that I couldn't listen to the tapes and I said okay," Rush explained. He said, however, that typed or taped minutes of public meetings are always open to members of the general public.

Rush said he succeeded in taping part of the tape he heard in the clerk's office before being interrupted by Oakley and Gallien and that discussion among those present on erasing the tape of the meeting upset him.

He said the tape disclosed that Mary Ann Banks, council president, suggested erasing of the tape toward the end of the Aug. 31 meeting and that the mayor remarked, "I'm glad didn't say anything bad.'

Next, he said, the tape showed Mrs. Gallien as offering to have "Harry erase them". Rush said Harry is the first name of one of the maintenance men at city hall.

"Is there a coverup going on at city hall?" Rush asked. "Is the tape of the Aug. 31 meeting still there?'

He also questioned why the treasurer was talking about destroying the tapes, contending it was the function of the clerk if it were authorized to be done.
"Some time back," Rush said,

"the clerk went before council and asked for permission to destroy tapes of all official city meetings that were older than one year and

Rush said hsi suit charges: the defendants participated in an illegal meeting; the tape recording of the Aug. 31 session was not made available to him; that discussion at the meeting suggested erasing of the tape; that the defendants, collectively and individually, be enjoined from holding further closed meetings; that the tape be made available to the general public; that he be awarded $500 and attorney fees on two counts.

Rush said he is being represented by Stephen Danko, an attorney from Southgate and that he is filing the lawsuit himself "as a public

Confining truck terminals to northeast Romulus studied

Should truck terminals be confined to just one section of Romulus, or should they be allowed to be built throughout the community?

A third public hearing will be scheduled soon at Hayti Elementary School, 30155 Beverly Rd., to get more citizen input on two amendments to the city's zoning ordinance.

The proposed amendments, labelled M-T1 and M-T2, would in effect confine construction of truck Romulus, according to Hyle Carmichael, industrial coordinator.

The two amendments were drafted at a public hearing Sept. 11 at Hayti School.

Currently, terminal construction is permitted only in areas zoned M-2 (heavy industrial) which are located in different sections of the community.

Prior to the next public hearing, the city planning commission and the city council will meet to review and discuss the proposed zoning amendments and the input from residents obtained at the June 8 public hearing, the first held on the terminal zoning.

About a dozen residents attended the June session to protest terminal construction in their area of the city.

For an existing city ordinance to be amended requires a 5-2 vote of members of the city council.

Injunction denied in Huron

Theme park protestors lose their lawsuit for injunction

By BOB AMEEN ANP Staff Writer

Efforts by a group of Huron Township residents seeking to stop construction of a theme park planned in their area were turned down by a Wayne County Circuit Court judge.

However, Judge John D. O'Hair left the door open for possible future lawsuits by residents protesting the proposed $40 million theme park by

Space World, Inc. of Livonia. Judge O'Hair ordered Richard James, township attorney, to draw up an order that would permit the township government to follow through on hearings which could net Space World final site plan approval

But, included in the order, according to Clerk Sandra Rhodes, is a stipulation that protesting residents are to be given five days to file a lawsuit should building permits get the go-ahead from the township.

and necessary building permits

Judge O'Hair turned down a bid Sept. 15 by Huron residents for a preliminary injunction to stop proceedings that could lead to construction of the revolutionary theme park on 300 plus acres southeast of New Boston.

Space World has an option of the land parcel, which is bounded on the north by Ash Road, on the east by Romine Road, on the south by Will Carleton Road, and on the west by I-275 Expressway.

Huron residents bordering the proposed park site have complained that the anticipated heavy traffic. noise and sudden infusion of thousands of people would constitute a major inconvenience to them and their familes.

On Sept. 5, Space World appeared before the Huron Zoning Board of Appeals and successfully obtained a special condition use zoning for its proposed project. On Monday, Sept. the Livonia-based firm was scheduled to go before the Huron Planning Commission for a site plan review, a preliminary step towards obtaining final site plan approval.

Adding fuel to the controversy surrounding the proposed theme park is where the $40 million to build it will come from. Dr. Philip Austin, who heads Space World, said the park will be build with private funding and not through the floating of bond issues.

Recently, it was disclosed that Space World was valued by Dun & Bradstreet at only $105,366. Considerable speculation has arisen as to how such a low capital funded company will be able to come up with the huge sum of $40 million for the park.

Last year, Space World was in the headlines for locating a similar theme park in Romulus, but nothing more has been heard of the project since the initial fanfare. Acting as agent for Space World in the purchase of land for the theme park is George Moore, candidate for Huron Township supervisor in the coming November election. Moore achieved considerable publicity back in 1975 when he promoted two rock concerts near Flat Rock which never got off the ground.

When Space Woirld's small financial worth is coupled with Moore's failures in the past, the foundation for such a mammoth undertaking as the theme park appears on the surface to be rather

Also viewed as a serious problem in the township's lack of sewage disposal capacity. Several alternatives have been proposed - expansion of the Flat Rock sewage treatment plant, construction of a new sewage plant on the park site, or transporting the sewage to another site by truck

Once all legal requirements are met by Space World, it will be in-teresting to see how long it will take for the company to start work on the multi-million dollar project.

Company officials said the first phase of the theme park construction is scheduled for com-pletion by 1980. With all of the problems cited, and with source of funding unknown, will the starting date be a few weeks or months away, or several years?

Home repair loans eyed for seniors, low incomes

The city of Romulus may soon be seeking a $250,000 community development block grant that will help residents with low incomes and senior citizens with home improvements. Patrick Hogan, director of community development and planning, said he plans to recommend to city council that he be authorized to make application for

He explained that the federal grants are disbursed by the Wayne County Advisory Council, the agency to which the city's application must be submitted.

Hogan explained that the funds, if successfully obtained, could be used for home repairs and improvements, including those that are in violation of city codes.

He said the request for the federal grant would be made at the city council session Tuesday (yesterday) because funds for the city's ongoing program of home improvement assistance are nearly depleted.

Mock drill Saturday

Metro 'plane crash' to test readiness

By JIM BRADLEY ANP Staff Writer What would happen if a big jetliner crashed on one of the runways at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and the gas tank ruptured?

What would happen to the 250 passengers when the plane erupted into flames and how could they all be Answers to those and many other questions will be answered this Saturday morning when a Mock Disaster Drill is carried out at Detroit Metro Airport.

Under the direction of the Wayne County Emergency Preparedness Office, the simulated plane crash will "take place" at 10 a.m. this Saturday with a host of county and local volunteers taking part.

"We want to stress to everyone in the area that this is only a "makebelieve" or simulated plane crash and not to become alarmed when they hear the sirens and see the many rescue vehicles driving by," said Louis Sugo, director of public information for the Wayne County Road Commission.

"We have never had a disaster and we hope that we never will. But this mock disaster drill has been planned over the past six weeks and will give us real insight into what would happen in a real emergency of this magnitude.'

Sugo stressed that the drill was only for the many volunteer "Patients" and rescue workers taking part in the safety project.

"We urge the public not to be alarmed at the sirens and many rescue trucks taking part in Saturday's simulated disaster. This is real serious business in learning what would take place if a plane crashed and how we would be able to treat some injured people and take others to hospitals," Sugo said.

The mock plane crash will take place on a runway near gate 8 in the southeast section of the airport between Northline and Eureka roads, Sugo said. Involved in the simulated disaster will be many local and county agencies that would be concerned in an emergency of this kind.

Included in the project are 10 area hospitals, plus some in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor. The Federal Aviation Administration, State Health Department, Wayne County Health Department, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve and the Detroit Police Rescue Helicopter, to name only a few.

Volunteer "patients" and "burn victims" will assemble at the American Airlines Hanger on Goddard Road to be "made up" with their imaginary burns and injuries.

Many local communities are taking part in the simulated crash project and Sugo said that naming all the persons involved would be

But he said the volunteers' work would no doubt save many lives if a real air disaster does strike

Rep. Ford predicts quick action on Civil Service

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has predicted early enactment of historic legislation, passed last week by the House of Representatives, making major reforms in the century-old federal Civil Service System.

Ford was one of the chief authors of the bill, which was approved by an overwhelming vote of 385 to 10.

The legislation, designed to streamline the federal bureaucracy and make it more efficient and responsive, already has been passed by the Senate in a somewhat different version, and a joint House-Senate Committee will meet soon to iron out the differences.

"I predict that the bill will be on President Carter's desk for signature by early next month," Congressman Ford said.

Among the major provisions of the legislation are:

-Elimination of the Civil Service Commission and its replacement by two bodies - an Office of Personnel Management and a Merit Systems Protection Board.

Greater flexibility by managers in firing, demoting and other personnel actions, but also more latitude for employees in labormanagement disputes.

- A limitation on the amount of money that can be paid to retired military personnel from their combined military pensions and 'double-dippers."

 A new system of pay raises for middle-level managers and supervisors, based on performance rather than longevity.

limit on the number of federal employees, stronger rules against discourtesy to the public and provisions for government-wide experiments in "flextime" - to keep public offices open for longer

"Approval of this legislation will hearald a new era," Congressman Ford said, "both for federal workers and for the public.

Musical benefit aids young kidney patient

There was at least one Westland youngster who was delighted to return to school this fall.

He didn'tk now how much he liked it until he had to miss it for a while last school year.

Louis Green, nicknamed "Bo" by his family and friends, is a victim of a chronic kidney disease, diagnosed less than a year ago. There are lots of things he can't do, food he can't eat, activities he can't take part in. And there is a lot of medication to take, plus a special diet to follow.

So right now, one of the most exciting bits of news that the youngster likes to discuss is his return to Stevenson Junior High School, where he is in the ninth

That is, unless Bo can get his own dialysis machine.

And that is the goal of a group of Westland fire fighters who are sponsoring a fundraising benefit concert Oct. 1 to raise money for the machine.

Projectorganizer Bob Stottlemyer said that the concert will feature country and western singers Bill Anderson and Mary Lou Turner, along with Michigan Consolidated Grass Co. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 1 at John Glenn Auditorium.

Donations for tickets will be $5 for adults, and $3 for children. Tickets are available at all Westland fire stations, at Davidson Sunoco Service on Ford Road, Akron Tire stores, one on Wayne Road and the other on Ford Road, and Rocky's Records, one in Plymouth and the other in Metro Place Mall in Wayne.

The kidney machine can cost anywhere from $6,000 to $10,000 or more, depending on what is needed. If Bo can have his own machine, he can take his treatment at home, and that will help him keep some normalcy to his life, perhaps keep him in school. The youngster has already had to alter his lifestyle substantially because of the kidney disease and hypertension, but has yes; Robert D. Wagner, 3,499 no to 2,462 yes; Nancy Neal, 3,439 no to 2,526 yes.

The results were certified by the Wayne County Board of Canvassers Tuesday afternoon, since it was the county, not the city, which called the election.

The margin of "victory" was 850 plus votes in each case. In all, 6,098 voters went to the polls in Westland's first Saturday election, and first recall election. The number voting exceeded estimates made by Westland officials and political

The election results put to rest a recall drive that started back in new council was seated. Two recall targets, Mrs. Neal and Stempien, were new council members, freshly elected in November 1977. Wagner was beginning a new term, and Mrs. McKnight was in mid-term.

The recall drive started with gusto after the four member council majority voted on Jan. 16 to oust two of Mayor Thomas Taylor's directors, including Sylvia Kozorosky, who was popular among many seniors as head of the Department on Aging. The collection of signatures began in mid-Feburary, because no official can be recalled until he's been in office at least 45

The drive, spearheaded by senior citizens, began to lag, when newer members joined the ranks to continue with the collection of signatures. In the end, it was a core group of less than a dozen persons who kept the drive going.

In the meantime, one of the recall leaders, Anne DeSmit, with John Auten, filed a lawsuit against the four allegedly holding a secret meeting contrary to the Open Meetings Act. That lawsuit still is pe ding and arguments were to me in court today.

His first job after retirement from Pure Oil was the job as executive secretary of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce where he served from 1955 to 1964

After "retiring" from there, Ted took over as executive secretary of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, serving in that capacity from 1964 to 1968.

Typical of Ted's devotion to the chamber cause and to his personal goal of always keeping busy, he began in a third chamber position executive secretary of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce - on the Monday following his retirement from Westland's chamber on the

Mr. Kuckelman was born July 18, 1888 in Cincinnati, Ohio, the oldest of nine children. His early years as a child were spent growing up on a farm in Kansas. Following his marriage to his childhood sweetheart, he began work with the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. in 1912, working there until his release in 1931 He then went to work that same year in the sales department and special brands division of the Hood Rubber Co. and Miller Rubber Co. both subsidiaries of the Pure Oil Co. in Chicago. He retired from the Chicago firm on Jan. 1, 1955, at what proved to be the early age of 67.

In addition to his 22 years of area chamber involvement, Mr. Kuckelman continued his years of service with civic, fraternal and other area organizations.

He became a member of the Knights of Columbus on April 26, 1912, and was active with that group almost until his death. During his years of service with the K of C, he held the offices of past deputy grand knight and vice president of the Notre Dame Building Corporation, as well as being awarded a life membership. In March of 1961, he was chosen Knight of the Month by the Notre Dame Council champter in Wayne and received his fourth degree on Oct. 22, 1961.

His affiliation with the Plymouth Elks Lodge 2130 started back on May 10, 1920. On March 22, 1967, he was given a life membership.

Mr. Kuckelman joined the Royal Order of the Moose Lodge 934 in Belleville in August of 1947, remaining active with the local champter almost until his death.

Mr. Kuckelman's list of accomplishments in service to area organizations are a credit to his reputation for always wanting to help others and to assist area communities in every way he could. His work with the Belleville Rotary Club, which he joined in April of 1943, exemplified his dedication when he achieved 25 years of perfect attendance. He served as the local club's president from 1947-48 and as governor of District 640 in 1952-53. During his work with Rotary, Mr. Kuckelman spoke in 163 chapters in the United States and Canada. In October of 1973, he received the much coveted Paul Harris Fellow Award.

Mr. Kuckelman's area activities and memberships included: honorary member of the Detroit and National Sales Executive Club; organized the St. Anthony's Belleville Holy Name Society and served as its president; organized the St. Anthony's Parish Council in 1970 and served as its first president; member of the Michigan and National Rehabilitation Association; member of the American Association of Retired Persons; member of the Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County, serving as president and vice president; served on the board of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults Incorporated, serving as president and first vice president:

Pending the submission and subsequent approval of specific needs programs, several area communities are in line for community development block grants from Wayne County

Part of an overall outlay of some $390,000, the specific needs program funds can only be used for special programs in the communities, according to James White, Belleville treasurer.

Amounts tentatively approved are: Belleville - $10,064; Van Buren Township - $14,772; Sumpter Township - $15, 270; Huron Township - $14,781; Romulus - $18,285.

White said the funds must be used for one of more of the following programs:

1) Program to increase hiring opportunities for low to moderateincome families;

2) Program which will directly benefit low to moderate-income families: 3) Program for the physical development of specific areas, with more than 60 percent going to low to moderate-income people;

4) Program to benefit a special segment of the total population;

5) Program for an economic development project that will ensure the retention of or increase the employment of low to moderateincome residents of the area. White explained that communities which submit specific needs programs which meet two or more of the five stipulations would stand a better chance of having their fund application accepted by the county.

Programs must be submitted by communities by Oct. 9, with notification from the county of accepted grants coming by Oct. 20, White said. Following an "environmental review", the funds vironmental review". would be released during the period from Nov. 1 to Dec. 13 of this year, he added.

To fulfill the requirements set out by the county, communities which receive these specific need block grant funds must either spend them or have them obligated for expenditure by Dec. 15, 1978, White

Also, donations from annual firemen's balls go to local charitable projects and to purchase needed items at the four fire stations in Romulus. Donations have also been made to the therapeutic pool at the two hospitals' burn centers.

Cocktails and appetizers will be served beginning at 7 p.m., with dinner scheduled for 8 p.m. Dancing will be to the music of Kevin Reed and his band. Beer and setups will be provided and those who plan to attend are asked to bring their own liquid refreshments.

Donations for the affair are $25 per couple. For additional information, call Bob Hoffman at 941-4225 or Warren Perkins at 941-3063.

To meet arbitration award

County prepares to lay off 1,322 employees

Preparations for lay-off of perhaps 1,322 Wayne County workers due to the cost of an arbitration award were under way this week, but the ultimate effects were clouded by a number of factors.

The County Board of Commissioners met Sept. 21 to act on a recommendation that 922 regular employees and 400 public service interns be laid off from Oct. 9 to Nov. 30 to meet the $2.5 million immediate cost of the arbitration award won by the deputy sheriff's

The commissioners, meeting as the Ways and Means Committee, approved budget slashes amounting to 30 percent for most departments, including their own.

However, they directed departments to save as much as they can from funds earmarked for purposes other than payroll in order to minimize layoffs

In an earlier action, the Board of Commissioners specifically exempted staff of senior citizens programs from cutbacks. Also exempted were a number of operations funded primarily by federal-state grants because those funds would be lost without significant savings to the county.

County Commissioners Richard E. Manning of Redford and Edgar L. Harris of Taylor said they would propose that the county go on a fouroday work week in order to fund the arbitration award without layoffs. Other factors which clouded the actual extent of layoffs included: A report from County Personnel Director John Barr that the complex mechanics of laying off employees would take about two weeks beyond

A warning by presiding judges of the courts that they would issue writs of mandamus ordering the county to maintain their staffs at present levels.

—A declaration by the chief assistant prosecuting attorney that his office would file a court suit aimed at preventing cuts in that

- A notice from Council 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSC&ME) that it would file a grievance, charging that the union contract prohibits layoffs except for lack of work.

— A warning from Vice-Chairman Manning that the longer it takes to effect the budget cuts, the higher the number of layoffs that might be required to make the $2-million-plus savings by Nov. 30.

The problem of financing the arbitration award was magnified by the fact that the county already anticipates a budget deficit of up to $12 million by the Nov. 30 end of this fiscal year.

The proposed annual budget, which was to be submitted to the commissioners by the County Board of Auditors Sept. 28, was expected to recommend extensive layoffs. State law prohibits the county from starting the fiscal year with a deficit.

The immediate crisis developed when Circuit Judge George Roumell ordered that retroactive pay and cost-of-living increases, as provided in the arbitration award, be paid to the 650 Sheriff's deputies by Sept. 29.

Judge Roumell denied a county request for a stay of his order. He was scheduled to hear a motion for a rehearing on his order this week. He also was to hear a deputies union request that the Board of Commissioners be held in contempt of court for failing to pay the full amount allegedly, due to the mechanical impossibility of completing the "paperwork" in time.

The decision to allow departments to scour other accounts for funds in order to reduce lay-offs was made unanimously on a motion by Commissioner Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia).

Acting on a motion by Commissioner Rose Mary C. Robinson of Detroit, the commissioners voted to reduce the Sheriff's staff to the levels which existed on July 1, 1974. Under the terms of the arbitration award, this is the only leeway the board has in reducing the number of Sheriff's depluties.

T. John. Lesinski, former judge who headed the Recorder's Court 'crash program'' for the Michigan Supreme Court, was among those who warned that the courts would take legal action to prevent cuts in their staffs. He charged the cutbaks would endanger public safety.

He called instad for closing of Wayne County General Hospital which requires about $15 million annually in county tax funds for its operation.

Noting the County is legally mandated to fund the courts, Lesinski added: "You do not have to overbedding in this community, and you can serve the needy on a contractual basis (with hospitals)

The budget cuts approved by the commissioners were recommended by their fiscal advisor, based on an average annual cost of $15,000 per job. The hospital was slated for one of the smallest cuts - 90 of 1,451 filled jobs, a 20 percent cut. Sheriff's staff would be reduced by 89 of 747 positions, primarily in supervisory ranks. Circuit Court would experience a major reduction - 108 of 347 jobs.

Time to push Romulus International

The recent meeting between officials of Romulus and Wayne County, again points-up some of the problems the city is experiencing as a result of the airport.

The discussions termed 'freewheeling and frank' by one of the participants, covered many areas of concern to Romulus residents, from drainage of the airport property to night flights into and out of the facility

For the first time, since informal meetings have been held, the county was represented by the decision making officials rather than just their representatives.

While the county officials expressed concern for the problems listed by Romulus, given the economic outlook for the county, it is unlikely that any long term problems will be resolved. But there is one thing the county can do that will improve the relationship between the citizens of Romulus and the airport. And that item would cost the county very

It appears to us that the time is right for Romulus' officials to renew their push for the renaming of the airport to Romulus International.

While it can certainly be argued with much validity that current problems eminating from the airport should never have been allowed to fester this long without concerted effort at their resolution. But reality is reality, and dealing with Wayne County will bring any idealist back to reality in a hurry.

The fact of the mater is, even if the county wished to grant all or even a few of the requests coming from Romulus, their current financial situation would not allow expenditure of additional funds.

For that reason, we think that now is the time for the leaders of Romulus to push for the re-

In fact, we at Associated Newspapers will repaint the road signs for the county if they agree on the long overdue recognition of Romulus

The re-naming of Detroit Metro to Romulus International would provide residents of the community with evidence that the county is truly concerned with Romulus and its problems.

Who knows, maybe the renaming of the facility would even prompt a kind word for the county from Mayor Oakley.

Pat Cullin's 'Electric Company'

"You light up my life," may well be the tune going through the head of Van Buren Township's Supervisor Patricia

With the decision by the U.S. Dept. of Labor to study five dams in the U.S. for possible renovation, and with Van Buren's French Landing Dam, one of those five selected for the study, the future may soon find Van Buren Township Electric Company, a reality.
With the initial grant of $90,000 for physical renovation approved, the chances now appear good that the township will receive the funds necessary to install generators and related equipment necessary to return the facility to the status of an operational electrical generating source.

With the dam restored, Van Buren would find itself in the business of selling electrical power to existing power distribution networks. And the sale of that power, over the long run, may well prove to be a source of additional revenue for

While the French Landing Dam will never be considered a large source of electrical energy, in these days of the 'energy crunch', any community owning its own power plant would have to be an attractive location for potential businessmen.

We congratulate supervisor Cullin for her successful efforts to lure federal money to Van Buren. Especially money that will be used to create a better community for its residents.

Ballpark decision by council lauded

Action taken by Romulus City Council last week, that will eventually result in the development of 13 acres of city land into a Little League Baseball complex, is to be commended.

The city council, at its meeting of Sept. 12, voted to lease the 13-acres to the Romulus North baseball group for $1 per year. It is expected that the completed project will cost about $400,000 with the kids of Romulus the beneficiary.

We want to go on record in support the council's decision.

We feel this kind of project will eventually produce a community second to none, a community that every resident can be proud of. In short, a community which can boast of strong local pride, the commodity necessary for continued development.

When compared to the eventual good that such projects accomplish, the loss of a small portion of the city's potential tax base is a small price to pay for healthy happy kids, living in a healthy happy

November tax proposals outlined

By STATE SENATOR DAVIDA. PLAWECKI

Three proposals to cut, limit or change taxes in Michigan will be among a list of nine proposals this November on what may very well be the longest ballot we have ever faced

Because it is important that you be informed about these issues, I would like to present a brief explanation of each of the three tax related measures along with a summary of the major arguments both for and against these proposals.

PROPOSAL E A PROPOSED LAW TO LIMIT GOVERNMENT TAXATION

Proposal E would amend the constitution by limiting the total amount of state taxes to a percentage of the total personal income received by Michigan residents, effective in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

In other words, the total amount of money raised by taxes in future years could not grow by more than the rate of increase in the state's personal income.

The proposal would limit tax collection in two

1) First, units of local government would be prohibited from levying any new taxes or raising the rates of existing taxes without approval of a majority of the registered electors voting on the question.

2) Secondly, if the property values of a local unit of government, excluding new construction and improvements, were to increase at a faster rate than inflation, any tax increase would have to be limited to the rate of inflation.

Additionally, this proposal would: prohibit the state from requiring any new or expended activities by local governments without full state financing; prohibit the state from reducing the proportion of state spending in the form of aid to local governments, and prohibit the state from shifting the tax burden to local governments.

If the state exceeded the revenue limit by one percent, the excess money would have to be returned to the taxpayers based upon an individual's income tax liability or single business tax liability.

Proponents Say:

•• Government has grown too big, too quickly, This proposal would merely force government to live on a fixed budget, as an ordinary household must do

.. The proposal would limit the ability of the legislature to raise taxes faster than the ability of the people to pay.

 By limiting taxes and expenditures we can improve the quality and delivery of government services by forcing the many special interests to compete among one another for a relatively

"fixed pie", meaning essential services benefiting a broad sector of the public would be funded and delivered more efficiently.

Opponents Say:

.. Tax limitation ignores the most fundamental reason for the growth of government: public demand for increased government service. The requests are not unreasonable: give my children more teachers; find my children a new school; see that my road is repaired; see that a park is built in my neighborhood; provide more scholarship opportunities; help hold down tuition; help senior citizens on fixed incomes stay in their homes; inspect double-bottom tank trucks; keep criminals in prison, etc.

 In the 22 years between 1953 and 1975, Michigan state and local spending as a percentage of personal income grew less than the national average, at a time when Michigan was providing services that were far above average,

.. The "straightjacket" approach in dealing with the growth of taxpayer frustration over a rising "tax bite" is inappropriate. Alternative fiscal reforms such as the budget and economic stabilization fund, sunset laws, legislative budget reform, and zero based budgeting offer a more rational approach.

Proposals H and J will be presented next week.

Cosell's "Fields of meaningless rhetoric"

By DENNIS FASSETT

For years I have sat in long-suffering silence while Howard Cosell managed to chalk-up weekly, more yardage with his mouth, than the NFL could manage in one month, on the football

Like most, I have come to accept Cosell's weekly guided tour through fields of meaningless rhetoric as the mandated price for watching ABC's Monday Night Football. But last week was the final straw!

Cosell, during his now weekly attack on the English language, chose to raise the question of the relative merits of 'print journalism', versus 'electronic journalism'.

Now for those of you who didn't realize that there were two types of journalism, 'print journalism', is that which deals with the printed word, while 'electronic journalism' is the radio-TV variety. And probably one of the greatest contributions television has made to society is to distinguish between the two.

The difference between the two styles of journalism is primarily the fact that with newspapers, what is said, is said for ever, and get it right the first time is the rule

On the other hand, in 'electronic journalism,' what is said is ephemeral, and 'they only get it right eventually."

I have accepted Cosell's remarks regarding journalism as simply further indication of his obvious lack of experience in the field. But when millions of people are subjected to his weekly fertilization of the airways, and his unique view of journalism, it becomes necessary for someone in the business to set the record straight.

Here are the facts. Just one issue of one good newspaper, provides the reader with more information about local, national, and international events than an entire week's worth of television's electronic journalism can provide.

Add to that television's reputation for getting the story right only after reporting if for the fourth time, and the good newspapers jealous pride in always getting the story right the first time, and you have a good idea of the different philosophy involved.

It is obvious to even the casual observer of the situation that television, with its in-depth reporting lasting only 90-seconds, can not really compete with real journalists who invest many hours in the gathering and reporting of events.
A comparison between journalism and television news would reveal the following: Television news provides only a brief view of 15 subjects during its alloted time. The average

TV news story is covered in 20-seconds, and those 'television personalities' who read those stories rarely have any control over, or input into the content of the program.

A newspaper on the other hand, consists of an average of 60 pages. Within those pages, readers will find a wide variety of informative topics on many subjects, including the broad in-depth reporting of more than 100 news stories. It would take Howard Cosell and his colleagues almost three uninterrupted hours to read those stories.

And if one television program were to present all information contained within the entire 60page newspaper, that program would have to begin while you were eating breakfast in order to finish at 11 p.m.

And a newspaper provides you with all that for only $.15. Compare that to having to listen to Cosell for the same period of time.

Cosell is right!

There is no comparison between 'print journalism' and 'electronic journalism.

About the only portion of a newspaper which television could favorably compare with is the newspaper's index.

Even then television news probably would have to repeat it twice to get it right!

Reader hits Martin story

Editor:

I wish to respond to the remarks made which concerned my family and myself in your article of Wednesday, Septeber 20, 1978, "Politics blamed for Martin purge". At the township meeting I did not try to claim that the Detroit Free Press article had embarrassed me personnally, but rather, that the article was an embarrassment to our community because it reported a set of police rules which are discriminatory and in bad taste.

The Free Press correctly cited embarrassing portions of these rules which identify persons as "crime hazards" by physical characby physical characteristics, occupational classifications, and psychological conditions, which I do not believe our part-time police officers are qualified at diagnosing. (Sergeant Patrol Division Section 47)

My objections to the rules are in no way related to a personal vendetta against Harry Martin or the UAW.

Rather, I am disturbed that this township should be identified with a set of police rules which, for example, recognizes "handicapped and one-armed drivers" as "accident hazards", (Section 48); which mandates that citizens when encountered by police officers late at night or early in the morning on the streets must "prove that they are law-abiding citizens." (Section 28)

What ever happened to the presumption of innocence until proven guilty? Obviously, this is not true in Van Buren Township. Police officers of Van Buren are to observe the "origins and social conditions of the Populace''! (Section 14)

Mr. Didia's remarks blaming my parents for having questioned these police rules at the township meeting, as being responsible for all evil, is in my opinion a sad blow against democracy.

Is this what happens in Van Buren when citizens dare to question the township officials (who, incidently, are elected to represent the citizens of the township)? They are labeled "troublemakers" just for showing

Contrary to the remarks printed in your paper, my family and I did not seek to make Harry Martin a "scapegoat" for the police rules or anything else.

My mother and I responded with our criticism of Martin's role in the police rules when those rules were

Martin's dedicated work with the Safety Commission by George Heifner. From that point on the discussion centered on name-calling which your paper seems to have found more interesting than the issue under discussion. I would hope that there are other being used as an example of Mr.

citizens in this community, who having read the police rules, as my family did, would have become concerned as well.

However, I would hope, as well, that in the future when a citizen seeks to question township officials on the rules they are making to govern this township that they will not be personally attacked as my family has been.

Wounded in action

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

I was reading the Bible the other day and I came to a passage where Jesus said 'These things that I do, ye also will do. And then I flipped a few pages and read the story of Jesus multiplying a few loaves of bread and fishes and feeding a hungry

Being of good faith I took my wheelbarrow full of money and went down and bought some meat. I almost lost it on the way home when a dog ran in front of me and tripped me but after scrounging around for a half an hour I found it under a maple leaf.

As I pulled out the broiler I did a lot of praying, and then I set the table and waited for the crowd to come home. I was positive when I opened that broiler that the meat would have multiplied, but apparently my faith wasn't great enough.

"Oh well," I said to myself, "maybe it will start multiplying when they sit down to eat." But it didn't. And there was a lot of angry muttering and crying and my teen age boy swore he didn't have strength to hit his sister in self defense.

'They raised the prices,' I told him. That's when he kicked over his chair, ripped the napkin out from under his chin and tore out the front door. All of the kids went tearing after him.

"Dad," one shouted. "I need five dollars for lunch.'

"Dad," another one shouted. "I need ten dollars for gas.'

"Dad," yelled the youngest. "Someone ripped off my gym clothes and I need fifteen dollars

A winning high school football

What can generate more enthusiasm and provide good wholesome en-tertainment for all the family?

program!!!

A chill nip is in the air and so is the football. Around the country, football players are getting into full swing at every level of competition -- from youngsters barely eight years old through junior high, high school, college and professional.

All of these groups have their die-hard followers and that's good. But for me, there's nothing like high school football with all its pageantry, color, music and

Of course, what makes it REALLY FUN is a winning team. And to be a winner on the gridiron, it takes more than one superstar, or 11 good players, or even a 40man squad. It takes a host of dedicated people-most of them unnoticed, unseen and untiring in their efforts-to build a winning high school program year after

Not every high school can be a super power on the gridiron. Some schools lack the talent, the coaching or the spiritperhaps some are without all three of these winning ingredients. But each new football season brings new hopes, new goals and new thrills to those involved.

That's why it has been encouraging to see many high schools in this area build winning sports programs on a sound basis. And that sound basis is the "foundation" of parent involvement. When you get parents eagerly and actively involved, a winning sports program is not far behind.

A prime example of this is Westland John Glenn High School. I had the privilege of covering the Rockets' football game Friday night against Grand Rapids Union. Sitting high up in the press box, you can see the panorama unfolding in front of

It's great to see the spirit and enthusiasm of the fans, the cheers that rock the stands and the band music that stirs the spirit. The students pour onto the field to form a corridor for their "heroes" to race through on their way to the bench and ultimate victory.

As I sat in the press box before the game, Glenn's most enthusiastic fan sat down next to me and began extolling the virtues of everyone involved. "The Rockets Marching Band has 135 members," he beamed, "and 35 are new members this year." He motioned to the north endzone where the band was assembling before the

"Norm Logan is our great band director and David Arthur is the Drum Major. At the mike introducing the band is Brian Belden, a Drum Major at Eastern Michigan University, who graduated from GLenn in 1975," said the excited Glenn

The band is invited to the Tulip Festival in Holland, Michigan each year and only the best bands are invited there,' he smiled, watching the band stride on the field behind the high-stepping drum

He gushed with enthusiasm. "This is Tom Regan, our man who keeps the stats, and Tom Kelly, who moved here from New York two years ago, is the game anBy JIM BRADLEY

Glenn Athletic Director Don Domke entered the press box and clapped enthusiastically when the band played before the game and performed its stirring renditions at halftime.

Glenn's biggest fan told me about the parents of the football players, cheerleaders and other students involved in the sports program. Adults, freely volunteering their time and energy, were seen everywhere-taking tickets, selling programs, and filling the stands.

I leafed through the beautiful 32-page white program with red and blue lettering. It had individual pictures of every player on the Rockets' football team. It pictures of Head Coach Chuck Gordon and his fine assistant coaches. Pride was evident everywhere.

Under Coach Gordon's picture was listed the fact he's a former All-State quarterback and attended Adrian College. It gave his wife's name, Joyce, and their 21/2year-old daughter, Jill Lynn.

Then I noted the final sentence: Member of the Michigan Chapter of Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Personally, I was very pleased to see that. Because, as a Christian, I believe there's nothing better for your son or daughter than to have a coach that is a fine Christian man or woman.

Now I don't know Chuck Gordon very well and I don't know how he coaches his players, but if it's anything like his courteous, helpful manner on the phone, he's a number one guy.

A good example of the involvement of adults in the Fighting Rockets' sports program was the presence of Frank Higgins, former Glenn principal, whose son played football for the Red, White and Blue. Higgins sat right in front of the press box, cheering loudly for "his" team.

Sitting next to me, Glenn's biggest fan praised everybody that was connected in any possible way to the sports program, and maybe even included a few that weren't.

And as Glenn Principal John Harrison walked away from me, I couldn't help but think that "Glenn's biggest fan" plays a vital part in the exhilerating, winning sports program that has lifted the Rockets into high school athletic prominence.

As I left the press box and descended the giant cement bleachers, I walked alone through groups of laughing, milling adults and students. They were filled with the exhuberance of victory-and well they should be

Because I glanced out over the football field and remembered "lean" days a few years ago when Glenn didn't even have its own field. I've been around this area for some time and I feel good over the success of John Glenn and their "Fighting Rockets'

And the thing to remember is that every high school can build a winning sports program, but its takes blood, sweat, tears and energetic involvement by the parents.

As I passed a group of five or six Glenn students at the edge of the bleachers, they were laughing and enjoying small talk. "Did you enjoy the game?" a good-looking fellow asked me with a smile.

I certainly did. But even more, I enjoyed the "winning spirit" at John Glenn that made Friday's victory possible.

TV is balderdash!

Director, Community Relations Peoples Community Hospital Authority

An interesting thing happened to me Monday morning after I'd reached my office and was settling down in the routine of a day's work.

One of my co-workers in the PCHA Central Office, probably only to kill some time, asked if I'd watched the President on TV Sunday night.

My response was, "No, but my wife and I did listen to Mr. Carter on radio as we were playing a game of scrabble.

Evidently, if one prefers to listen to radio rather than be educated by TV, then one is held suspect in the eyes of one's

Now this piece is not going to be totally another of Tuttle's distribes against the tube. But, I'm convinced that there are some things which are simply begging to be said-and I'm going to say them.

The advent of the TV era must, I think, be considered as one of the most remarkable events of our evolution in

The potential for good offered by TV is so immense that it boggles one's mind.

Alas, it remains as only potential because those in charge of programming seem to be convinced that the American public is nothing more than a prize collection of nitwits with the collective taste of a band of angry Huns.

Every once in a while some TV executive slips a cog, and something worthwhile finds its way to the screen.

Shows such as "Sixty Minutes", "M+A+S+H", "Lou Grant", to mention but

But folks, there is some programming which, and this description is charitable, is absolutely nauseating.

Young people today coming of age have been bombarded with illiteracies ("Blanks taste good like a cigarette should" - the correct form is ... as a cigarette should). I'm not picking on the tobacco industry. Indeed, probably 75 percent of the Madison Avenue mentality as reflected in commercials is in one way or another just plain nonsense or insulting.

How about spelling as typified by the worksmiths of advertising? I can remember cute things such as Krazy Kat. How many youngsters grew up thinking that cat was spelled kat? Or crazy krazy?

Another abmonination which forces me to draw in a quick breath is the cavelier way in which so many of the TV 'journalists' use the noun criteria.

Criteria is a nice, neat Latin noun and it surely has a definite place in the scheme of things written or spoken. But, when I hear some over-paid, pompous newscaster say "this criteria is" I gnash my teeth in despair.

By saying "this criteria", the newscaster has relegated — if he knows the difference - the singular form criterion to the never-never world of TV absurdity. The same, incidently, is true of data, which has a singular form datum. The misuse of the verb form with data is so common, that one hesitates to use the proper verb for fear that some illiterate construction has become a recognized way of expression.

There are those who sniff and say that purists who insist on correct spelling, verb forms, and syntax are pedantics or nit pickers.

To that charge, especially as it originates from those who have yet to learn the basics of the language, I say balderdash The English language is a delightful and comfortable means of expression. There are established rules in English just as there are in algebra, carpentry, or ditch

Properly used, English is a joy to the ear or the eye. Improperly used, English becomes the mistress of cluttered syntax and imprecise meaning.

Perhaps some day TV will reach some measure of maturity. Newscasters will then be forced to demonstrate at least a basic understanding and competency with the language. The careful craftsman, you see, works hard to ensure (not insure!) that his copy of his oral communications are precise, well ordered, and fit as they should within the limits established over the centuries by learned disciples of the language. Hence, until that day of maturity arrives, I'll continue to get most of my news from good books, newspapers (the London Times is a classic; if you ever get the chance to read a copy of this out-

Described as having more intrigue than a James Bond "The opium Trilogy" will be seen oct. 1-3 at 8 p.m. on Channel 56.

This three-hour series uses hidden cameras and persistent journalistic digging to follow the distribution of heroin from harvest in the fields of Southeast through Asia, processing and tran-sportation by the underworld, to distribution in the streets

Part 1 is titled "The Warriors." This episode follows the fierce battle for the Burmese opium crop among local army chieftans who switch sides frequently. Notably, producer Adrian Cowell was trapped in Burma for months during a recent opium war.

"The Politicians," offers a behind-thescenes look at the conflict between the White House and a congressional committee over an offer from drug traffickers to sell the United States $35 million worth of opium to destroy. The program looks at President Carter's narcotics policy and its effectiveness.

The last episode, is called "The White Powder Opera." This program focuses on the lives of Hong Kong's 100,000 heroin users. These people once smoked raw opium but now they rely on the powder neatly processed.

KAREN BARTON

William and Mary Barton of Taylor desperately need to hear from their daughter, Karen Marie, who ran away from her parents' home about four months ago. The 15year-old had been living with her sister in Brownstown Township, but left there with "A bunch of kids in an old red Chevy" recently. The teen was described by her mother as five feet-five inches tall with dark shoulder-length hair, blue eyes and a slight scar under her chin. She weighs about 120 lbs. "We know she might be afraid," Mrs. Barton said, "but we want to say that she doesn't need to be . . . All we want to do is hear from her." Mrs. Barton added that her last letter, sent to her boyfriend's mother, was postmarked Romulus.

UHT Memorial Funeral Home

WHAT SHOULD I WEAR TO THE FUNERAL?

Black is no longer the only color appropriately worn for a visitation, wake, or funeral. Today a visitor may wear colorful clothing which expresses good taste. Gloves and hats may be worn, if desired; but are being worn less and less. The widow or widower will usually wear something basic or conservative in color and style.

All persons attending the visitation or funeral should wear clothing which will contribute to the atmosphere of dignity and respect for the family and other mourners. Some customs and local mores may suggest a small black veil, an armband or something similar. Your attendance at the funeral or visitation is a simple, but meaningful way to let the family know that you share their loss, that you wish to be considered as one of those who care and will be around to help in the future. It's one-time opportunity and postponed condolences become awkward for both parties.

How much could you borrow? CPAs say state of finances will determine amount

If you had to raise every cent you could - to start a business, let's say, or put a down payment on a house, consolidate debts or meet some emergency - how much could vou borrow? $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 or

To put the question in its proper perspective, if you were to find a lender who would extend any amount you requested, how much should you borrow?

According to Donald E. Schmaltz, president of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA), the answer to both questions starts with the state of your finances - your net worth and your ability to generate income — in other words, your ability to repay.

Schmaltz explained that the borrower should be just as anxious as the lender to know about the prospects for replayment because, "the person who forecloses on a mortgage and the one who is foreclosed are equally unhappy."

The best way to minimize the likelihood of default, is to prepare a personal financial statement, which includes 'a listing of assets and liabilities, and of changes in net

The personal financial statement that will be most useful is one that conforms to guidelines followed by when auditing such statements on behalf of creditors, or of government agencies wanting to know about the finances of nominees for high office

Under the guidelines, "accrual" rather than "cash' accounting is followed - assets and liabilities are recognized as soon as the obligation is incurred, not just when payment is finally made.

Also, because of inflation, greater emphasis is being placed on the estimated current values of assets, which now supplement historical costs on CPA-audited personal financial statements. Creditors and government agencies need to know the value of assets today, as compared with liabilities, not years ago. The important information is what an item could be sold for on the open

How then, do you go about preparing a personal financial statement? He advised starting with a listing of assets and liabilities in two columns - one for historical cost (what you paid for it), and the other for the current estimated values.

The amount by which the total assets exceed total liabilities - what you own minus what you owe - is your net worth.

But, CPA Schmaltz warns, net worth is only a still picture - a forzen instant in time — and what you need, in effect, is a move. So it also is important to determine what changes there have been in net worth, whether net worth is climbing or falling, and at what rate.

Subtracting total decreases from increases during the past year (or the other way around) gives the net result and tells what progress, if any, is being made.

These computations, if made for the first time, says Schmaltz, could reveal a financial condition far . different from what you might ex-

Lenders use these figures to help determine limits on loans. Generally, the rule of thumb that can be followed is that a borrower's annual debt payments should not exceed a third of his income. That means that when you add monthly payments for a mortgage, car, credit cards or other outstanding loans, the total amount should not exceed a third of your annual in-

Lenders have other bases for approving loans, of course. They consider prospects for increased earnings. If your income has risen steadily, lenders may be willing to tip the balance in your favor. Stability of employment and past credit history also are important

In revealing your financial situation, the personal financial statement may hold some surprises for you. But for richer or poorer, the statements can be a gauge to help determine what you can - or should

The U.S. Postal Service has announced plans to add four digits to existing ZIP Codes by 1981 Postmaster General William F. Bolger said the decision to go with an add-on system was made in order to help keep down postage rates by substantially reducing costs and to improve service by reducing sortation errors and speeding mail

He said the system would apply primarily to business mailers, who account for about 80 percent of all mail volume. The average citizen will be encouraged, but not required, to use the add-on digits when the new system goes into effect.

Under the present five-digit system, 92 percent of all first class mail carries the ZIP Code.

Bolger characterized the move as a logical extension of the ZIP ("Zoning Improvement Plan"), which was announced in 1961 and introduced in 1963.

He said the action was similar to the telephone company's introduction of area codes, which has enabled the phone company to increase its electronic switching capability, hold down rates and improve service.

While recognizing that the new system may cause some in-covenience, Bolger said the benefits of the system to the public should far outweigh any drawbacks. The five-digit ZIP Code guides the sortation of letters and other mail to the 40,000 post offices, stations and branches serving more than 70 million homes, farms and businesses across America.

The additional four numbers will go much further. Within all five-digit delivery areas, each block of a street, office buildings and companies receiving large volumes of mail, will be assigned a four-digit, add-on number.

September Days Senior Citizens set for bowling

Membership attendance at daily events of the September Days Senior Citizen Center has grown steadily in the last month, reports Virginia Melcher, director of the Van Buren Township Center on Tyler Road.

On one day alone, 105 nutritious lunches were served to seniors for a donation of 50 cents; 75 members participated in a group discussion of current events and 65 seniors spent the afternoon dancing under the direction of Dorothy and Shorty

Braided wheat germ bread

Good looking wheat germ granary bread is a feast for the eye as well as the palate. The best characteristics in taste and texture are combined in this original new recipe from the Kretschmer Wheat Germ Consumer Kitchens. The flavor is full and robust yet the texture is remarkably light. As bakers know, the kind of liquid used in bread making influences the final product. In this case, the recipe calls for dark beer. The extra malt in the dark beer reacts with the yeast to form more bubbles in the dough as it rises, hence the fabulous texture. And of course the flavor is enhanced by regular wheat germ combined with both whole wheat flour and all purpose flour.

The attractive shape of the loaf is made by forming the dough into a braid and baking in springform pan. You can see the beautiful results when the hot loaf is turned out of the pan. The taste panel who sampled this flavorful bread all agreed it makes a superb "bread and butter" snack. All menus benefit, too, from the variety, character and extra nutrition contributed by this outstanding wheat germ bread

Never before have Americans been so interested in good diets and healthful living. And that's why handy wheat germ, the beautiful food, is a staple found in so many kitchens. It offers a unique combination of vitamins, minerals and proteins in a concentrated form. The tiny flakes of wheat germ are easy to combine with other foods. Eating wheat germ with yogurt and a high vitamin C rich food makes a great breakfast. It's an effortless way to help balance your daily diet.

Wheat germ bread

2 packages active dry yeast 1/2 cup warm water (105 degrees to 115 degrees)

1/4 cup brown sugar (packed)

1 egg, slightly beaten 3 tablespoons melted butter 11/2 teaspoons salt oven 40 to 45 minutes or until done.

1 cup dark beer, room temperature (no foam) 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular

2 cups stone ground whole wheat or graham flour 11/2 to 2 cups all purpose flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl. Stir in brown sugar, egg. butter, salt and beer. Stir in wheat germ and whole wheat flour. Stir in just enough all purpose flour, about 11/2 cups, to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto floured surface. Knead 50 to 10 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic. Place dough in greased bowl turning to coat all sides. Cover and let rise in warm draft free place 11/2 to 2 hours until doubled.

Punch down. Divide dough into 3 equal parts. Shape each piece into a 16-inch rope. Braid ropes together. Form braid into ring and seal ends. Place in greased 9-inch springform or layer pan. Brush top with Egg Wash. Cover loosely with plastic wrap. Let rise in warm place 1 to 11/2 hours until doubled. Bake in 350 degrees Cover loosely with foil or brown paper last 5 to 10 minutes if crust browns too quickly. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack. Makes 1 loaf. EGG WASH: Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon water.

Since we had such a good, gooey (and fattening) time sampling Sue McDonald's Bread Crumb Molasses Cake last week at the Wayne office, we decided it should be shared with our readers so that we call all grow plump at the same time.

Put together in Sue's own little kitchen in Westland and taste-tested by members of the editorial, production, sales and administrative staffs at our 'home office' the cake was very rich, very moist and very good but NOT, we found, for those who don't care for molasses, spices or raisins.

The concoction, Sue said, was a post-depression favorite when families had to make do with what was on hand, ergo the bread crumbs to stretch the flour supply and the molasses in lieu of sugar.

BREAD CRUMB MOLASSES CAKE

- 3 tablespoons oleo or butter
- 34 cup boiling water
- 1 cup molasses
- 1/2 cup raisins 2 teaspoons ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup bread crumbs 1 cup flour

Melt oleo in boiling water and add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Pour into greased cake pan and bake at 325 for 30 to 40 minutes or until done. This recipe makes one 9-inch round cake layer. Double amounts for a larger cake and use in a greased rectangular pan.

As prices soar astronomically, services are dipping to lower and lower levels and, as a member of the buying public I hearby state my gripes.

While at Briarwood last week in JLH's coat department, I spent a good hour trying on winter coats and (if I could figure it) probably another 15 or 20 minutes traipsing across two departments to the 3-way mirror in the dress section. Back and forth, back and forth until I finally asked if Hudson's was too hard up to afford a tri-view mirror for coat buyers. The clerk, of course, agreed and said it seemed to be just a matter of getting the maintenance men to move and place the thing among the London Fogs and Misty Harbors. We have a lot of complaints, she said, why don't you write a letter? Would it do any good? (They STILL have those 15watt bulbs in the dressing rooms.)

Another purchase at the mall was at JCP's where I waited, along with a dozen other weary shoppers, to be checked out at the ONE center on the entire second floor for such purposes. Everything, from household to infants, had to be paid for or charged at one spot and with only TWO cashiers on duty. Gr-r-r, and my girls wonder why I HATE to shop.

But, despite my grumblings, I came across a fun thing taking place in the core of the shopping center — in the recessed 'pit' — where battalions of fraternity men from Eastern Michigan University were amassed, on stage.

Seated at tables with their Greek letters prominently displayed, the nine competing groups devoured gallon upon gallon of ice cream of every type and description with every type of topping imaginable. Five-gallon containers were arranged in a huge plastic tub to form a small mountain of America's favorite dessert and from which tuxedoclad waiters scooped Revere bowls full of the stuff to feed the "animals", some of whom had begun to take on a slightly green tinge.

The vanilla-chocolate-strawberry-tutti fruit orgy was broken at intervals with fraternity chants whenever the gluttons could manage to come up for

It was all in the name of charity and the "Ice Cream Tuesdae" saw 1,000 pounds of the cold creamy stuff earning quite a sum of moola for the capacities of the Greeks. And, although Channel 7's TV cameras were busy recording the contest, there was nothing to be seen on the 11:00 news that night (and it COULDN'T have made the 6:00 edition). Makes one wonder just how many thousands of feet of film hit the cutting room floors each day at Detroit's television stations.

BELLEVILLE'S GONNA MISS - Leo and Virginia Turney who, last Tuesday winged their way to Sanford, N.C. and their new southern digs. Active in local clubs, Scouts and government until his work kept him out-of-state too much, Leo-was transferred to the Tarheel State by the Ford Motor Company. Virginia, who'd been a staffer at the Van Buren Public Schools administration building, and active in her church, the Belleville Study Club and the Home Arts Club, will be overseeing the decorating and furnishing of a new home overlooking the 15th green at the Carolina Trace complex. On behalf of their many, many friends, neighbors and acquaintances, we wish them well (and - good golfing, too!)

The Christmas gift catalogs have started arriving at our house (we've a half dozen thus far) and this year's "item" seems to be Walt Disney tree ornaments. Hostess Mrs. Stanley Sietz was assisted by her three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Bernadette) Garbe of Pinckney; Mary Alice of Ypsilanti and Rita, who was home from her freshman classes at Western Michigan University for the Several games were played and prizes awarded to the winners. Special awards were given to those with winning numbers on party lapel favors fashioned of red netting and white bells. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Joseph Ross and Debbie Johnson.

In keeping with the holiday season wedding date, the hall was decorated with red and white streamers, white wedding bells and wall coverings of multi-colored cut-out flowers in a huge red paper cart.

The bride-to-be is a registered nurse at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and her fiance is in his senior year at the University of Michigan. The wedding is planned for December at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Whitmore Lake.

I admit that isn't a good description of a barbershop quartet of the past, and it is even a worse description of quartets of the present. Barbershop quartets are still flourishing and now take in men, women, and children. These days, a husband might belong to one group, while the wife belongs to another, usually known as Sweet Adelines. Often, the children grow up with a great enthusiasm for this kind of music.

Residents of the park, some 250 in all, were the first to congratulate the Hootens on their 50 years of marriage, honoring the pair with an evening of dancing on March 9. A large anniversary cake was also presented for the couple to cut and share.

Decked out for autumn

State is kaleidoscope of color, activities

A battle that never made the history books, a festival honoring long johns, a chicken race and gorgeous autumn secenery provide a kaleidoscope of things to do this October in Michigan, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

The Civil War returns to Michigan as the fictitious Battle of Cider Ridge is staged by a troupe of 300 blue and gray garbed performers during the Four Flags Area Apple Festival in Niles Oct. 5-8. You can try your hand at the questionalbe art of seed popping and enjoy hot coffee and fresh apple pie in the apple tent.

Anyone not wearing red in Cedar Springs on Oct. 7 may run the risk of arrest by the Keystone Cops during the town's Red Flannel Day. It all started back in the winter of '36 when a New York feature writer bemoaned the fact that there were no red flannel long johns available for insulation against the cold winter. The Cedar Springs newspaper replied that their town's stores were well supplied even if Saks Fifth Avenue was not, and Cedar Springs was on the map. Three years later the town set aside a special day to honor the "drop seated" undergarments and the tradition has continued through the Red flannel weather is not too far off, but before it arrives you're invited to attend Michigan's annual autumnal spectacular. Some choice seats for the show are aboard the motor ship Beaver Islander for a color cruise on Lake Charlevoix. Cruise dates are Oct. 7-8 and 14 from Charlevoix, and you must make reservations. If you prefer to go by land and "captain" your own automobile, guided color tours of Gladwin County are scheduled for Oct. 14-15 from Gladwin. Many areas of the state will have marked color tour routes.

Greenfield Village recreates the way the crop was harvested in days gone by, and the good times that went with it, during Autumn Harves Weekend, October 6-8, while the Fall Festival in Clinton features crafts from yesteryear Oct. 6-8. Ethnic food booths, arts, crafts and two parades perk up the Festival of the Forks in Albion Oct. 7, and Bellaire heralds the fall colors at its Autumn Festival with Paul Bunyan Days lumber demonstrations and contests.

Another way to enjoy the autumn air is at the Oktoberfest in Big Rapids Oct. 1. The festival comes complete with German bands, dancing, and German food, beer and

The Coldwater Historic Homes Tour Oct. 15 offers a smorgasboard of 19th century architecture, enhanced with stained glass windows, stagely staircases and impressive woodwork. In conjunction with the tour, the Antique Car Club will provide a shuttle service for those desiring to travel from house to house in vintage style.

Behind the footlights, Kevin McCarthy portrays our 33rd president in "Give Em Hell, Harry" at Michigan State University Oct. 3, and America's Goodwill Ambassador, Pearl Bailey, speaks at Whiting Auditorium in Flint Oct. 17. Center for the Arts, Midland, presents "Sound of Music" Oct. 20-22 and 26-28; and the Music Hall in Detroit will swell with the melodies of "Snowboat" Oct. 27-29 and 31.

The oldest classical ballet company in America graces the stage of Detroit's Music Hall Oct. 18-22. The highlight of this engagement of the San Francisco Ballet will be its full-length presentation of "Romeo and Juliet". The Fisher Theatre in Detroit continues to raise the curtain on its production of "The Grand Tour" Oct. 1-29 and the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn presents the 1929 mystery farce "Spooks" Oct.

13-14, 20-21, 27-28, and on into November.

Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus comes to Detroit's Cobo Arena for 12 spectacular performances of "The Greatest Show on Earth" Oct. 10-15.

Some "fine feathered friends" will be the center of attraction at the Fowl Festival in Plymouth Oct. 1. Area businessmen sponsor chickens to see whose entry can fly the farthest distance down Main Street. Michigan has a colorful line-up of things to do for fun this fall. Let electorate fill vacancy

-- Charles West

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

Accusing his collegues of seeking a candidate who is compatible with their own party philosophy, Mayor Pro-Tem Charles West wants the electorate to step in and do the job that the Council has failed to accomplish.

The Council has been seeking a candidate to replace Kenneth McKee who resigned Sept. 1 for personal reasons.

In the past three weeks, council members have been seeking a replacement and, though several qualified candidates have come forward, none has been able to gain the four council votes.

The Council is presently seeking a "compromise candidate", however West will have no part of that he says.
"No consensus candidate has been

"No consensus candidate has been found because we're basically looking for someone who'll vote along our individual political lines," said West. 'Let's tell the public the truth. A candidate hasn't been found because there has not been a political consensus among us and that is not fair to the people who have submitted their resumes or have been asked to be considered as possible candidates.

"Therefore, I feel in all fairness that the people should vote and decide who the seventh member of this council should be,"

The Council has until October 2 to fill the vacancy. If it failed, then the city must hold a special election to elect the council member.

The cost of a special election is estimated between $2,500 and $3,000, according to City Clerk Geneva

West, along with Mayor Paul Lada and Councilman Michael Brown have aligned themselves in one camp and their "preferential candidate" is Mrs. Christine Fargo, while Councilmen Patrick Norton and Kurt Heidmann are backing Manuel Lentine. Councilman Milton Mack Jr. has cast his support to Robert Beeny. Others who are seeking the position include Thomas McKay, John Caknipe and Ronald Hayes.

The Council will convene in a special meeting at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 27 to continue their debate on the appointment.

During Tuesday night's council meeting, each council member was asked to single out some of the criteria that the potential candidate should possess in an apparent attempt to find some common denominator.

Brown said he was looking for someone who was active in clubs, service affairs, someone who thought positively about the city and who was proud to live in Wayne.

Norton agreed, and added "that I'm not going to alienate anyone but I'm looking for someone who is going to serve in the best interest of the community and someone who is going to run for reelection and I'm not against anyone, at least at this time. All of the candidates have excellent credentials."

Mayor Lada was seeking a candidate who possessed "some commonsense and has been involved in the decision-making process."

Heidmann said "someone who had personal integrity, was responsible and had leadership ability would be his first choice and who wouldn't be politically aligned and would get involved. A person who is his own person."

West countered that "the reason why we won't reach a decision is because of latent reason - we want to make sure that the candidate will vote our way in selecting the mayor.

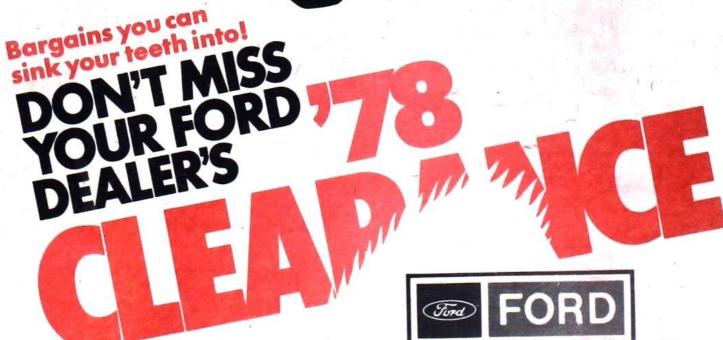

"Even though we have a city manager form of government, the mayor plays a key role, especially since the adoption of the 'Sunshine Act'." The mayor controls the tempo of the council meetings and, though people will disgree, the mayor is a very important city official and has much more to do with the success of the city than one would think from the city charter."

Under the present charter, the mayor is elected by the council members. It is usually a titular rather than a power-invested position in a city manager form of government.

Heidmann pointed out that the incoming councilman would not be involved in electing the mayor since he — or she — would serve until 1979 and then have to run for election.

Cement shortage compounds avenue widening problem

By JIM BRADLEY ANP Staff Writer

A severe shortage of cement has caused John Carlo Construction Co. a lot of problems in finishing the Michigan Ave. paving project.

But meetings between a Carlo representative and new Interim City Manager Wally Arrowsmith, plus help from the state, has hopefully worked out a concrete solution.

Arrowsmith had two meetings with Bob Walz, Carlo representative, and was told that Carlo has had an impossible time trying to by cement.

But Arrowsmith said his contact with Gerald McCarthy, State Highway Dept. official, has brightened the future considerably for com-pletion of the Michigan Ave. project.

"Mr. McCarthy told me this morning (Wednesday) that the State Highway Department has just received approval from State Attorney General Frank Kelley to buy 30,000 tons of cement on the open market," Arrowsmith said.
The need for the State Highway

Department to buy the 30,000 tons of cement was created when Medusa Cement Co. of Ohio reportedly did not honor its commitment to sell deliver to Carlo the full 8,000 tons of cement to complete the Michigan

Ave. widening project.

Because of the cement shortage. paving projects on Telegraph Road (U.S. 24), I-696 and M-14 have also been halted. These three areas will receive the remainder of the 30,000 tons of cement, Arrowsmith said.

Joining Arrowsmith in his talks with Walz was Ed Taylor, director of the Inkster Department of Public Service. Walz told Arrowsmith and Taylor that he and other officials of Carlo Co. visited Dundee, Mich., where a huge cement company is Walz said they were told no cement was available, but they saw 30 trucks full of cement pull out and head for Wisconsin and Colorado. "We were informed that other states pay a much higher price for cement than Michigan, so cement companies are shipping it outside the state," Arrowsmith said.

Michigan makes six million tons of cement a year and sells three million tons of it outside the state, apparently because of the much larger profit.

will return. Does the Bible say anything about our Generation?

The Bible has the answer. I'm glad you are excited because - we should get excited when we think about Jesus coming again. The reason you are frightened is the same as most other people. It is just human nature to be afraid, to some degree, of not knowing when some important

You were very correct about your facts that no one knows when Jesus will come again. In Matthew 24:36 Jesus says: "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not even the Angels of Heaven, but my Father only.

To answer why so many say we are in the last generation does involve much Bible prophecy. Many have read, seen or heard about "The Late Great Planet Earth" by Hal Lindsey. Many others may have heard Billy Graham, or other preachers, and great Bible scholars talk about being in the last generation. Most of them quote it from Matthew 24:32-34 in the Bible. "Now learn a parable of the fig tree (universally interpreted as the Jewish nation); when his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh: So likewise when you shall see all these things (Prophecies Jesus had been talking about), know that it is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, this generation shall not pass, till

You see, David, Jesus just prior to this time had cursed the Fig Tree

(symbolic of the Jewish nation), for He would soon be on His way to the Cross, but they had not accepted Him as their Messiah. He teaches us that we should have fruit in our walk with the Lord. As this tree withered for not having any fruit, He also later prophesied the Jewish nation He had

Now in the praable He told Matt 24: 32-34, it's made clear that the Jewish Nation would put forth leaves again, it would come to life again. And when it did, there would be the time of the last generation. Now, we have heard much preaching on this becaues it has happened in our day and many believe it's the last generation. But no one seems to know just

Some have thought 30 years, others 40 years, and yet others a time which no one knows. If this is correct that we are in the last generation, then the Lord could come any time during it. And we are clearly told no man will know when it will be. Also, the Bible teaches we should occupy till He comes. We are to be busy for Him. In other words, we are not to worry about when He comes but just be ready. David, just be sure you are ready for the Bible says: "Be ye therefore ready also, for in the hour as you think not the son of man cometh."

"Wewant to make it clear that the hold up on the paving project is not Carlo Company's fault," Inkster officials stressed this week.

They have worked diligently to keep their end of the bargain. They just have not been able to buy cement anywhere since Medusa did not send their full shipment of 8,000

Inkster City officials were so upset over the delay in the paving of Michigan Ave. that telegrams have been sent to Gov. William Milliken as well as other state officials and representatives of the city on the state level.

Mayor Terrel LeCesne and City Council members were planning to take busloads of Inkster citizens to Lansing within a week to protest in person. Now the city officials say they will wait until Oct. 9 to see if the paving starts.

"We are still going to send telegrams toofficials in Lansing and the State Highway Department but they will not be as strongly worded as originally planned," said Mayor

We are gratified that the State Highway Department has in-terceded and is buying the 30,000 tons of cement. We have been in-formed that Inkster will have top priority because small businesses are located along Michigan Ave.

"We believe they are trying to resolve the problem and are willing to give them until Oct. 11 to see what happens."

Meanwhile, Arrowsmith said he was informed it will take only 14 days to pave Michigan Ave. once the pouring of cement starts.

So now it will be a "little more waiting" for city officials and local businessmen who have suffered through the construction period.

applicants in more specialized and ultimately higher paying job classifications.

"For instance, we will now be able to train people as: field engineers, diesel mechanics, tool inspectors, machine operators, and similarly skilled occupations" said Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. These people will receive a combination of classroom training and m-the-job training from the emloyers who will eventually employ hem for their special skills. The government's role is to provide the incentive for these employers by subsidizing a substantial part of the training cots.

Edward R. Koch, deputy director fo the Wayne County Office of Manpower, explained that eligible employers will be reimbursed for 100 percent of the cost involved in the classroom training of the applicants and 50 percent of the hourly wage costs once the individuals begin their on-the-job training.

According to Koch, the STIP program is designed to meet the needs of industry for specific job skills as determined by industry and to increase private industry participation in CETA.

Arthur Lewis, director of the Wayne County Office of Manpower, views the STIP grant as the forerunner to President Carter's proposed Private Sector Initiatives

"It provides a workable alternative to the placement of CETA trainees in public service employment where it is often difficult to absorb these trained individuals when the funding limitations run out," he said. "This additional grnt will aid in the absorption of public service employees by private employers and provide the applicants with valuable and marketable job

"The unique feature of this program is that we can now go to the employer to seek out his specialized job needs, aid him in setting up a classroom and on-the-job training program, provide him with willing applicants for the training and, at the end of the process, the employer

will have a trained employee to add to his staff in a realistically needed

According to Lewis, portions of the program are slated to begin as early as Oct. 1. The program is part of Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Wayne wants Fordson to 'cease and desist'

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Sports Editor

Coach Floyd Carter and Wayne Memorial wants Fordson to "cease and desist" as Great Lakes 8 Conference football champs

And the undefeated Zebras will issue their ultimatum personally Friday afternoon before a partisan Fordson crowd.

While Wayne was pounding Taylor Center into submission last Friday, Fordson lost a thriller to Monroe, so the impending skirmish makes it a "do-or-die" situation for the defending champs.

Wayne needs the victory to keep pace with Monroe and challenge the Trojans for league superiority at a

Fordson nearly lost the opportunity to defend its title because of millage woes, however, the voters came through on the final day before the season got underway

"Our kids are very happy that the Dearborn residents passed the millage," said Carter. "We're very happy that we have this opportunity to play them. Our players wouldn't have it any other way and, believe me, we're ready.'

The status of injured Wayne halfback, Mike Wilson, isn't known at present. Wilson missed last Friday's game against Taylor, but

Carter hopes to have him back for

Fordson. Taylor Center was very receptive to Wayne's generosity early in the game when the Rams turned two fumbles into a scoring opportunity. Midway in the initial quarter, the visitors put together a 10 play, 52yard drive and scored on Mark Martin's up-the-middle one-yard plunge. Harlod McNeeley kicked the extra point and with 23 seconds left, Taylor had established a 7-0 bridgehead.

But that's about all it managed to go as Wayne quarterback Mark Korte, running backs Ed Turbeville, Jim Patrick and Mark Zerona along with defensive workhorses Ted Salvadori, Emery Biggerstaff and Keith Kolehmainen put on a show that broke several Wayne records.

Wayne exploded for 21 points in the third quarter, the most points scored by a Wayne team in one quarter in recent years, and went on to bury the highly-regarded Rams

Run, thief, run

35-7, stretching their win streak to three (2-0) in the league.

"We had to make some halftime adjustments," Carter noted, "and we came back in that second half to play one of our better games.'

Wayne scored the neutralizer in the second quarter after Korte's 17yard touchdown run was nullified because of a clipping penalty. The Zebras gave up the ball at the Taylor Center 15 with 7:34 left in the Then, after Taylor's QB Tom Jacobs failed to move the team, the Rams punted out of bounds at their own 48. With 6:12 left, Korte went to work. Alternating Donald Shumpert, Turbeville and Patrick with the ball, Korte moved the Zebras to the 20 where an offside penalty hurled them back to the Ram 25. Turbeville then cut loose to the seven and given three more chances he scored from the one with 1:42 left.

Then Skip Walker's kick tied the score at 7-all.

Wayne dominated the second half. The Zebras broke the deadlock when Zerona took a Korte pitchout and zipped 45 yards over the goal line as a host of would-be Ram tacklers failed to stop him. Walker again made good on the conversion and with 8:33 remaining, Wayne had established a 14-7 lead. Two plays from scrimmage later, Salvadori picked off a Jacobs' pass and returned it 28 yards to the Rams' 40. Rickey Rogers, moved up to the varsity squad to replace Wilson, ripped off 10 yards and Korte on a keeper reached the 22 yard line before he was brought down. Patrick and Rogers carried to the 18 and 14 respectively, before Patrick scored on an up-the-middle nine-yard run. Walker made it 21-7 with the conversion.

Taylor offered another gift to their hosts and this came in the form of Zerona's fumble recovery on the first play from scrimmage after the ensuing kickoff. Wayne got possession on the Rams 34 with 1:59

Wayne got possession of the ball on the Taylor 34-yard line when Zerona pounced on a fumble. Korte went to the air and couldn't find his target on the first play from scrimmage, handed off to Turbeville on the next and he ripped off a first down, but a holding penalty moved the Zebras back to the 49.

Then Korte caught the Rams' secondary asleep and put one in orbit to Zerona who made a spectacular over the shoulder catch and rambled on 49-yards into the end zone. Walker again booted the point

Wayne got another gift in the early stages of the fourth quarter when Salvadori came up with a deflected pass for his second interception of the evening. This time he was hauled down on the Wayne 20-yard line.

Wayne gave up the ball via a punt to the Taylor 44 and immediately put the pressure on Jacobs and Martin. Martin was hit by a jarring tackle by

Tribute to Booker Dozier

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Sports Editor

There is a story about that immortal mathematician-physicist Albert Einstein who rowed to the middle of a lake to work on some math problems and suddenly realized he didn't bring along his logarithms with him.

About to turn around and head for the shore. Einstein decided to work on the problems anyway. As he probed the mysteries of the universal, he suddenly realized that he had committed to memory the logs he needed to solve his problems.

I feel like I'm in the middle of the lake. And, before anyone concludes that I am attempting to compare my self to that great man, let me say here that the only similarity between Einstein and me is that we belong(ed) to the human race.

But, the other day I spent more than 21/2 hours interviewing Booker Dozier, who is retiring after 27 years with the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department, and my notes of that interview have disappeared. And that is a first.

Dozier and his boss, Lou Jackson, spent last Friday afternoon showing Ted D'Pulos, the superintendent of the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department, and Michael J. Gouin, who recently resigned from the Wayne parks and recreation department to head the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, around the newlycompleted $1.8 million Inkster Recreation Center.

The facility in one word is "super" and Inkster residents and the area can be proud of such a complex. But that's not the story

Dozier and I had lunch and he outlined what he planned to do in

"No, I'm not going to disassociate myself with Inkster and grab a fishing rod," said Dozier who is a very religious person. "There is just too much work to be done.

"I want to remain involved with the youth of this and other communities," Dozier, who is 61, added. "My wife tells me if I'm going to do what I have been doing, then why retire? Dozier went on to answer, "Do you see that person over there? He was on drugs and a lost human being, but through our Lord he has found himself

"I work with "big brothers" and we try to help kids who are isolated and have no where to turn but to the streets," Dozier said, "and there are so many of these kids. We have to help them, after all, the future of this country and our way of life hinges on our Dozier, who grew up in northwest Detroit attended Northern High and played both baseball and football while in high school. In the early 50's he moved to Inkster where he helped organize the first recreation program in the city. He also served as an assistant football coach at Inkster High, but his forte was getting the kids involved in recreation programs "to help keep them out of Booker is concerned about the drug problem - and says "it's because of the lack of communication and love in the families

"Back then it was rare to hear about a kid on drugs, but today it's all around us - not only the black but the white community. "And one of the reasons why these kids turn to thrills is that their parents substitute materialistic things for love. The kids have everything from cars to name it, is it no wonder they seek other

They're throwing a party for Booker Saturday night at the Recreation Center and I'm invited to go. Maybe this time I won't lose my notes.

Coach Stokes: 'We're going to get better'

Suburban 8 Conference football champ. After their third consecutive loss, a 22-0 shutout from Edsel Ford last Friday, Coach Pat Stokes said that he feels his team will get better.

"We play the toughest three teams in the league as starters," Stokes said, "and our philosophy at this time is try to try to improve with each game. 'And I feel that our kids have been doing just Stokes labeled the performance by the Tigers against Edsel as "Our best ball game by far this year. We made some mistakes but we managed to shut them out the second half.'

Edsel Ford scored shortly after the initial kickoff as the T-Birds marched 44-yards in 10-plays with Pat Brackett breaking loose on an off-tackle sprint for the final three yards. Wendell Hardin kicked the extra point and with less than five minutes gone into the quarter Edsel had a 7-0 lead.

Belleville countered with one of their best drives of the season. Quarterback Tim Ellsworth, getting an opportunity to use injured runningback Barry Redick for the first time this season, had in his repertoire a few deceptive options and pass plays that also included Brian Brinkerhoff's running. Brinkerhoff and Reddick cut Edsel's defenses to shreds but at the end of a 69-yard drive Belleville was denied the final yard into the end zone and handed the ball over on downs.

"That hurt us," Stokes recalled. "If we would have scored it would have given our boys a psychological lift."

Belleville leaps right out of the proverbial frying pan into the fire Friday night when it travels to Plymouth Salem, the defending and undefeated From quarterback Jamie Dedonis to Scott Leggat which covered seven yards. Hardin kicked the extra point, padding the T-Bird lead to 14-0.

Ellsworth again had no problem moving his offensive machine through the T-Birds but a turnover killed the Tigers' chance to score as Edsel picked off a pass at their own 15-yard line. Edsel had two minutes left and put the time to good use. They tallied on a 35-yard around end run by Ron Roosevelt and picked up what proved to be their final two-points of the game on a pass from John Bridges to Jeff Renas. Edsel was immediately given a gift by the Tigers who fumbled the ensuing kickoff but the winners couldn't capitalize on the situation. "I felt we played a solid offensive game, but our defense was poor," said the Belleville coach. Belleville received an excellent effort out of junior linebacker Loren Ormanian who picked off a pass on the Tiger 26 to erase one serious Edsel threat and Brinkerhoff along with end Dave Cook also stood out. Three agonizing Bellevine interceptions were reasons why the Tigers didn't get on the scoreboard. Edsel had a lopsided 17-9 edge in first downs and 359 to 120 margin in total yards. Ellsworth passed seven times and completed two while Edsel made good on nine of 23 tries. Both teams fumbled once and recovered but Edsel was charged 100 yards for eight penalities as compared to two infractions for 20 yards for Belleville

Brinkerhoff led Belleville ballcarriers with 56 yards in 15 carries and Reddick, coming off of an ankle injury and playing his first game, picked up 43 Edsel took over on its five-yard line after the T- yards on 14 tries.

Franklin surprises Glenn

If the opening conference setback is any indication of what is in store for Glenn Coach Jerry Szukaitis and the Rockets you won't hear them

A year ago Glenn dropped their Northwest Suburban Conference cross country opener to Livonia Franklin and went on to capture the conference championship.

In their initial title defense, the Westlanders again surrendered to Coach Bob Holmes' runners, 25-31, and Szukaitis is probably wondering if history won't repeat.

"Despite the loss, I felt our kids performed quite well," said the veteran coach. "The outcome of the meet wasn't decided until the last 600 yards when Gielinski(Cory) went from second position to fifth. He's been competing with an injury and when he's 100 percent we're going to be all right."

Glenn's Jim Kanclerz finished first with a 16:27 run, but the next three runners to cross the finish line Dave Jeff Reich (16:50), Dawson(16:58) and Mark Oleski(17:03) wore Franklin colors.

Cory toured the three-miles in 17:04. and runningmates Tom Andres (17:24) and Paul Stephens (17:36) pulled in sixth and eight, respectively. Chuck Kohaker was 11th for the Rockets.

Holmes received a seventh place performance out of Jeff Brisgow and Jeff Mascharka finished ninth.

Glenn will get its first look at newcomer to the league, Redford Union, which defected from the Suburban 8 a year ago to join the Northwest League.

Glenn's razor-sharp defense cuts up Grand Rapids Union

By JIM BRADLEY ANP Staff Writer

John Glenn's unbeaten football squad owes a lot to its rugged defensive unit.

Rocket defenders have only given up six points in rolling to a 3-0 record and were brilliant again Friday night in Glenn's 29-0 trouncing of Grand Rapids Union.

So dominating was Glenn's defense that the outstate visitors were held to no first downs and a mere 20 yards gained in the first half as Glenn sputtered to a tentative 10-0 lead. Grand Rapids managed only 12 yards rushing on 11 carries and completed one pass for 8 yards in the first two quarters. Meanwhile, Glenn put 10 points on the scoreboard and had two other

The TD scoring bomb came on the first play of the fourth quarter at 11:52. With 9:39 left in the game, Ed Hamel, a 5-7, 155 pound scatback took a Union punt on his own 45, faked a handoff to a teammate and raced untouched down the right sidelines into the endzone.

With Coach Gordon's second unit in the game, backup quarterback Ken Liedel took over the throttle and guided the Red, White and Blue machine 65 yards in eight plays for its final touchdown.

The drive started when defensive back Greg Houfley intercepted his second pass of the game on the Rocket 35-yard-line. Junior tailback Scott Thornton, called the fastest runner on the team, took over for Ruark and dazzled the crowd, as well as Grand Rapids, with his speed and shifty style, rambling 48 yards in seven carries.

The 5-10, 170 pound Thornton scooted off right tackle, dipped to his right and raced 17 yards untouched into the Grand Rapids endzone. DeLuca's last extra-point try of the (Continued on 4th Sports)

"McCarthy looked good in practice," commented Vigna who is off to his worst start in four years. 'He did a super job for us and what wasn't noticeable from the crowd is that we called a lot of audibles.'

The kid just lifted the ball over his head and it came right down. It probably caught him by surprise as well because he could have caught the ball and ran."

Cherry Hill awaits unscored on Melvindale

BY TOM MOORADIAN ANP Sports Editor

From the perennial underdogs of the Tri-River Conference football league, Cherry Hill has now become the wonderdogs of that conference.

The undefeated Spartans trampled Schafer 28-14 last Friday night to stretch their win streak to three, the longest in recent years.

But, whether Coach Jerry Pawloski has a team that is made up of championship fiber will be determined Saturday afternoon at Spartan Stadium when undefeated and unscored upon Melvindale invades the northside of Michigan

What does Pawloski have to say about his team's chances of stopping the unscored upon Melvindale machine?

"Melvindale has an excellent team as their record indicates," Pawloski said, "but I feel we have a very explosive team right here at Cherry Hill. It has been averaging 28 points per game and, in my opinion, it is one of, if not the best team in the Schafer probably wouldn't argue that point. Cherry Hill erupted for 22 points in the second quarter - a record for the school - en route to its third successive victory.

The Spartans took the lead in the first stanza as Rick Searcy grabbed the opening kickoff and bolted through the Schafer defenses for a 92-yard touchdown return. Tom Minor missed the point after, the ball sailing wide of the uprights.

For all purposes, Cherry Hill put the game out of reach in the second quarter when they scored 22 points to build up their margin to 28-0 at Bob Tamm, a defensive tackle, set up the Spartan second touchdown when he recovered a Schafer fumble at the 5-yard line. On the second play from scrimmage, running back Darryl Gallant scrambled across the Schafer goal line but fumbled.

Minor, with 71 yards on seven carries, was the workhorse on offense while Searcy connected on eight of 12 passes, including those two touchdowns for 161 yards.

Defensive end Mark Taras contributed six solo tackles while Floyd Simmons, a safety, had five unassists and three assists. Minor intercepted a third period pass to erase one Schafer scoring threat and Tamm along with Gallant leaped on East controlled the game the entire first half and, with the exception of one drive which ended in Boka's unsuccessful field goal attempt - from the 42 - the Patriots didn't feel threatened.

"It was a hard-fought game against a determined East team, said Vigna, "and they are definitely a team that will win some games before this season is over. To our team's credit, it was tough when it had to be.'

Ron Lohman, a middle linebacker Joe Chudy, the outside linebacker, along with Paul Berry, who intercepted two of McDonnell's passes, stood out on defense for the defending co-champs.

East had the edge 12-7 in first downs and, for the third consecutive week the opposition has run more than twice as many offensive plays than Franklin.

"Our problem is that we have made too many turnovers - five more in this one - and we have had six interceptions and nine fumbles," said Vigna. "That's killing us.

It sure is. And with Thurston, who always gives the Patriots pain where they don't need it, moving in on Saturday, Vigna will have to try more experimentation.

Wayne's Mike Mason(20) has isolated Taylor Center quarterback Tom Jacobs(11) on his "tackle screen" and tossed the elusive back for a loss. Coach Floyd Carter, critical of his defensive units in the past, saw it mature against the highly-touted Rams who were once considered an heir to the Great Lakes 8 Conference throne presently occupied by Fordson. After Taylor cashed in on a couple of Wayne offensive miscues in the form of fumbles, the Zebra defense shut out their visitors 35-7 for their third Huron established superiority over the Eagles in the first quarter as they struck for two touchdowns and increased the margin to a staggering 36-0 at halftime.

We really weren't in the game after that," Foley commented. "It's the kind of game coaches like to forget and use as a learning tool."
Foley was pleased with the performance of Richard Lewis on defense. A safety, Lewis accounted for 13 solo tackles. When a safety makes that many tackles, what were the linebackers

"That was our problem," said
Foley, "we just couldn't stop them." Mike Johnson, who counted eight tackles and seven assists, and

Mobile America keeps moving

Undaunted by today's high interest rates, American families are still buying homes in record numbers,

In its monthly sales report on existing homes, the association's Department of Economics and Research said that in July, resales showed a 2.9 percent gain over the June rate and were 10.2 percent ahead of last July.

"Except for February, when winter blizzards put a damper on the existing single-family home market, resale activity this year has moved across a high plateau," said research director Kenneth J. Kerin.

"If the current trend continues-and we expect it will—a record 3.8 million transactions will take place druing 1978," he continued. "This compares to the previous record of 3,572,000 units set last year.'

Home prices keep going up and up, too, even on older homes.

According to the Raltors Association report, the median price of an existingone-family home jumped another $1,000 in July—to $49,400. This is 13 percent higher than the price of last

In the North Central, which includes Michigan, the average price of an existing home rose 15.7 percent, to $42,800.

"As home prices continue to climb," Kerin said, "sales in the $100,000 or more' category are becoming more according to the National Association commonplace. Nationwide, fully 8 of Realtors.

percent of all resale transactions carried a six-figure price tag.'

Taken as a whole, the dollar volume of single-family resale homes has risen dramatically, the report said. This July, the dollar volume was $219.8 billion

For the family considering a move to a larger home, that information is a mixed blessing. While they will be able to get more for their present home, they will be spending more for a new ahode. There is a growing trend among people to revive homes, give their structures a "high potency" facelift that may add need space, or just improve the appearance.

In Associated Newspapers' fall home improvement section, we are offering our readers helpful stories dealing with renovations. We will have stories on adding a second bathroom, sprucing up the kitchen or turning the attic into a much needed spare room.

There also will be stories on exterior facelifts-aluminum siding and new roofing-as well as information on how to trim your heating and cooling bills through insulation.

Wasted space can be WC

Sometimes it seems like homes should be built like hotels...a bathroom in everyroom...to minimize the confusion that reigns when everyone wants to use it at the same time.

Many older homes, lacking enough bathrooms, have "wasted spaces" that can be converted into compact bathrooms or powder rooms to ease the crunch. Areas such as the attic, a part of the utility room, a large closet, a pantry, under the stairs, the basement, a corner of the family room and a section of the garage are good candidates for a small, or half, bath.

Many areas, such as the utility room or basement, already have plumbing in or near them. You might, for example, install a bathroom in the attic directly above the bathroom on the floor below.

Where space is limited, br awkwardly shaped, you can get fixtires for corner installation.

Such compact bathrooms can alleviate family competition for the fabilities during the morning or evening "rush hour", and they can be as attractive as they are practical since suitable fixtures come in the standard colors and styles of most manufacturers. The right choice of faucets and medicine cabinets can add immeasurably to the room's attractiveness.

But a note of caution...Don't let the idea of a compact bath lull you into buying cheap fixtures. Your bathroom fixtures take a lot of hard use, so it pavs to buy the best. The better water closets are quieter, too, an important plus feature.

For further information, write the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau at 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Clear as glass

One square foot of glass can lose as much heat as 10 square feet of wall.

And nearly 70 percent of a typical single family's heating load is traceable to windows and doors.

That's why energy-conscious study groups in the United States are taking a new look at windows and entraceways.

Since 70 million living units use 20 percent of all the energy consumed in the U.S., the homeowner holds a great deal of responsibility—which he can use to save or lose money.

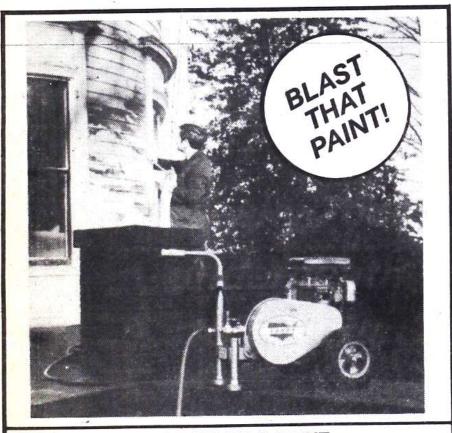

In that regard, it has been calculated by the University of Illinois that ten 15-square-foot windows will leak about 100 more gallons worth of fuel oil per season if they are only single glazed.

With a typical three-by-five foot single-glazed, doublehung window, almost three times the energy would be lost through the window as is lost around the sash area.

Storm doors help, too, because heat loss through or around the door is about the same.

For all these reasons, few installations in the home pay off for themselves as quickly as do storm doors and windows and replacement windows.

Current estimates are that in four to five years, the homeowner will recover the cost of his installation.

By do-it-yourselfing

Transform spare room into living space

Do-it-yourself paneling, done in conjunction with insulating, and using new styles of inexpensive but at-tractive wood designs, can transform your attic, basement or junk room into much-needed living space.

Many of the neighborhoods in Western Wayne County are fully developed residentially, and many families have settled into their homes with the thought of staying there for a while. But sooner or later, families are confronted with the problem of not enough room in the once perfectsized house.

New home prices are souring. But that doesn't mean you can't fight the "battle of the bulge" — a growing family's needs versus space limitations.

The solution is to convert storage space to living accommodations.

You can do it yourself with the aid of a booklet guide published by Boise Cascade Corp. It's called "How to Apply Paneling" and includes step by step instruction. Write to Boise Cascade Building Materials Group, P.O. Box 2885 Portland, Oregon, 97208.

Boise also recommends you use its new line of paneling called "nature walls." The paneling is made from Lauan hardwoods. Since lauans have little natural grain pattern, the manufacturer imprints them with grain patterns such as pecan, birch, walnut and oak. The result is a panel with durability and beauty, but at less expense that domestic

With winter winds approaching, it is always a good idea to include insulation in your remodeling plan as well, another job you can do yourself. Don't get too carried away with do-it-youselfing, however, experts caution. Use professionals to do sophisticated jobs such as wiring and plumbing.

Not only can you gain step by step instructions for your paneling and insulating job from Boise, but many local home remodeling shops will give you tips and advice on doing the work

You'll need to know the tools to get, how to measure the room to order paneling, tips on handling problem areas such as vents, furnaces and water heaters, and suggestions on molding you'll need to complete the job.

You may not need a new house, just some energy and time to put to work to create that needed living space out of area you already have.

Green up the window

So you're into indoor greenery, but it seems your plants don't like their surroundings, and the more you nurture them, the more you lose.

Why not pick a window . . any window in your home that's not particularly scenic and add an attractive window greenhouse to create your own mini-garden.

It's ideal for dressing up kitchen windows or any "blah" views — like the side of your neighbor's house.

You can build this minigreenhouse on the wall of your home, mounted to studs, or fit it into your

Durable cabinets are safer

The possibility of skinned knees, sprained ankles, or worse, looms in the minds of parents as they watch children climbing on kitchen cupboards to reach the sink.

To the child, it's the quickest route to a glass of water or cookie jar. But a false move, or a weak cabinet, could mean a crashing trip to the kitchen floor.

One way to make sure your small people don't hurt themselves with such acrobatics is to make sure kitchen and bathroom cabinets are designed not only to take daily use, but misuse as well.

Manufacturers know that children will be careless no matter how often parents caution them.

Therefore, tough laboratory tests designed by the National Kitchen Cabinet Association, can be used to determine the durability of those cabinets.

The NKCA certifies cabinets that pass the tests, with a round, blue and white emblem, usually found inside cabinet doors or drawers. The tests have assured the buyer that the goods have the structural strength finish to resist corrosion because of harsh conditions such as heat

The tests also make sure the items meet construction and performance standards of the American National Standards Institute.

But in the long run, no matter how durable your kitchen and bathroom construction, a child's own knowledge of safety precautions must be considered the best prevention to injury

Parents can teach children home safety, and follow rules themselves. Such rules call for use of paper cup dispensers in a spot where youngsters can reach them. Children should learn the difference between hot and cold

Parents should remember not to put "slippable"; throw rugs on tile floors

Luckily, the bumps and bruises that are part of every childhood, are usually cured by the homemade remedy of a kiss and a hug.

But to make sure you know what you're getting in cabinet selection anm dremodelling, you can send 35 cents for "Kitchen and Bath Planning" to NKCA, Box 2978, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y., 10017.

Kay Bee Construction Salesmen Licensed

The home improvement industry has seen some drastic changes in the past few years. For one thing, all sales people are required by law to be individually licensed. The license insures home owners that any representative is qualified to have a sound knowledge of basic building codes. Also, that he is a legitimate and an ethical person.

Kay-Bee Construction is a family owned and operated business. Louis Grosslight drove a horse drawn trolley down Woodward Avenue in Detroit in the 1880's. Sherman Grosslight was the founder of Kay-Bee Construction and he was one of the pioneers in the home improvement industry. It was his idea to make sure that sales people have individual licenses, so that the consumer would be better protected.

Now Terry Grosslight, a third generation Detroiter, is the president of Kay-Bee Construction. Terry has first hand knowledge of all types of building. As a college student he spent his summers working with the various trades in the building business. "I worked with laborers digging foundations, cement men, finish carpenters and all the various trades. I guess you can say I learned from the bottom up, and I am very grateful that my dad had the foresight to make sure I could experience various problems that occur in the building of any job.'

Terry now heads the multi-million dollar Kay-Bee Construction Company. He has seen some of the changes in past years in the home improvement industry. However, he still operates on one old fashioned prin-"Most customers don't do much building in a lifetime. Perhaps they remodel a kitchen, or add a room on. Whatever the work is, it is something new to them and therefore we see they (the customer) gets special consideration." A timetable which schedules all the trades to work is given out, and as Terry preaches to his many em-ployees, "the customer is always right." That may seem to be a trite statement, but is has helped Kay-Bee Construction become one of the leaders in the home improvement industry.

With the cost of new houses so highTerry feels that his business and the industry in general will continue to grow. As a last word of advice to prospective home improvement customers, Terry said, "Make sure you know your contractor and be sure he been in business for a period of time and has a good reputation.

Exterior 'Facelift'

Siding can increase value of older home

Older homes are soaring in value right along with new homes in today's heated housing market.

The value of that comfortable but drablooking older home can be increased by upgrading its exterior appearance through residing.

Whether you want to increase the resale value of your home, remodel a recently-purchased older home, or simply improve the appearance of your home, hardboard siding materials can convert the aging house to either a traditional or contemporary look temporary look.

With the broad range of colors and patterns available today, there's no limit to creativity in renovating an older home. You can revive the character of a classic design or totally change the personality of a home with horizontal lap siding in warm, muted colors for a quaint, clapboard effect; with vertical planked panels reproducing the grain and texture of natural woods in rich, earth tone colors; with panel siding which simulates the skiptroweled surface of real stucco-without the installation mess.

The typical 1½-story home can be converted to a contemporary rustic design with prestained vertical panels contrasting with horizontal lap siding stained rich brown to highlight windows. The former reproduces the woodgrain texture of natural pecky cypress while the later looks and feels like rough-sawn cedar. A re-designed entry shelter with front door accenting the vertical lines, illuminated with a modern globe fixture, completes the contemporary effect.

The standard split-level home is transofrmed into a traditional English Tudor stylewith stucco-like Stuccato panel siding acdented with half-timbers over joints for authenticity. A hint of a hip-roof over the left gable, plus diamond-shaped mullions on windows and doors, adds to the 16th-century English decor.

Insulate to save energy

Michigan residents are well aware of the energy challenge facing them today. The cost of heating and cooling their homes is taking an increasingly larger part of their budget.

Reportedly, more than 50 percent of the energy used in today's homes goes to provide heating. The best and easiest way to use this energy wisely and efficiently is to insulate. The insulation that keeps the heat in during the winter also makes the home easier to cool in the summer.

Energy savings are dependent on the insulating material's resistance to heat flow (R-factor) rather than its thickness. Two different kinds of insulation may have the same thickness, but the one with the higher R rating will perform better.

Many Michigan homes have little or no insulation and are energy wasters. Among the most popular types of are energy wasters. Among the most popular types of insulation available to the homeowners are Urea Formaldehyde Foam, Cellulose and Fiberglass.

Urea Formaldehyde or UF foam has the highest R factor 4.88 per inch and is fire retardant. UF foam, which looks like showing areas in fully among ded when it which looks like shaving cream, is fully expanded when it leaves the application gun and solidifies within seconds, providing a rigid wall-filling barrier to heat loss, Cellulose, also popular, is a fiber product composed of ground up newspapers and other material mixed with a fire retardent chemical. This product, blown into the side walls and attics, has an R factor of 3.60 per inch. One of the drawbacks to the use of cellulose in the side walls is its tendency to settle, thus leaving the upper portion of the walls open to heat loss.

For the do-it yourselfer, fiberglass is easy to install, however, it has a low R factor (3.03 per square inch) and is becoming increasingly scarce. Its most common form is in either rolls or batts.

Properly insulated attics and walls can save up to 50 percent on the fuel bills", says David Costigan, a local insulation contractor.

Some of the many ways in addition to wall and attic insulation he suggests include having a thorough check-up of your heating unit by a licensed heating contractor to insure it's operating at maximum efficiency. Make sure all heating outlets are unobstructed, set your thermostat at the lowest comfortable temperature during the day and reduce it more at night. Clock thermostats are an efficient way to do this and are worth their cost in fuel savings.

Installation of storm windows and doors as well as sealing up all cracks around them with caulking and weather stripping will add to your savings.

Insulate your hot water tank and all hot water pipes to reduce heat loss.

Make sure all doors and windows leading to the outside or to unused rooms are tightly closed. Close fire place damper when not in use.

Open drapes on sunny days to take full advantage of the sun's warmth, closing them at night to reduce heat loss.

In the kitchen, open your refrigerator as few times as

What wood would be best?

Once considered a luxury item confined to custombuilt homes, fireplaces have become a common feature in homes of virtually all price ranges. This has been brought about by the advent of factory-built that have fireplaces eliminated the need for massive footings and masonry associated with earlier fireplace construction.

If your nose rules your selection of wood for the firplace, then obtain apple, cherry, beech, hickory or pecan logs. Their smoke usually resembles the fragrance of the tree's

From the safety standpoint, resinous woods (hemlock, larch, spruce (hemlock, larch, spruce and juniper) should be used in moderation. These woods contain moisture pockets which, when heated, explode with great vigor. SHould the firplace screen happen to be open a bit or should the "pop" occur while tending the fire, you could end up with a burned carpet or worse yet, a burned bystander.

Most wood is sold in cords-a stack of wood 8 by feet or 128 cubic feet. However, when buying from a wood-lot supplier, you most likely will be buying a face cord-one that is 8 feet long by 4 feet highm but only as deep as the length of the logs, perhaps as little as 12 inches. In that case you are buying only one-fourth of a standard cord.

Roofing: Lowest prices vs. cost

"The lowest price does not necessarily equal the lowest overall cost."

This is the advice from a federal agency to homeowners in Western Wayne County who are looking for roofing that offers excellent protection as well as economy.

According to General Services Administration (GSA), the initial price of a product is only one factor to consider when selecting an item.

Others include the installation, repair and operating costs. GSA, like other large buyers of household products, uses a technique known as life cycle costing and has found this method results in considerable savings over the lifetime of the product.

Homeowners in Western Wayne County with remodeling plans can achieve large savings by adopting the life cycle costing method.

Before purchasing, answer these four questions: 1) What is the price of the product? 2) Cost of installation? 3) Number of years product will be owned?, and 4) How much will it be used?

Asphalt shingles can, in many cases, be applied over the old roofing, eliminating the cost of a tearoff. Since the cost of labor is usually the same regardless of the life expectancy of the roofing, it may be more economical over the long run to specify asphalt shingles that are designed to last up to 25 years.

The cost is therefore amortized over a longer period of time.

To estimate the probable annual cost of a new roof, add the cost of labor and materials and divide the result by the shingle's designed life expectancy.

In addition to the benefits of life cycle costing and excellent protection, the newest asphalt shingles offer good looks and add depth to the roof.

The three-dimensional appearance of these shingles creates attractive, deep shadow lines. Available in popular earthtone shades, these shingles also serve to blend a home with its surroundings.

Additional help in the selection of quality roofing is available in a 20-page booklet which can be obtained for 35 cents from SR&A, Box 3202, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y., 10017.

Leaky roofs: Look underneath the drip to find its 'source'

The major problem in trying to locate a leak in the roof is that often it isn't directly over the wet spot in the ceiling. If you can get to the underside of the roof in the attic, it's easier to find the leak. When it's raining, go up in the attic and look for the leak above the wet spot on the ceiling. If the underside of the roof is dry there, look further up towards the peak of the roof.

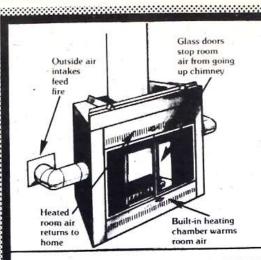

You should be able to spot water leaking through and traveling down along the rafters before dropping to the attic floor. Once you find the leak, push a piece of wire through the spot so you'll be able to locate it later when it stops raining.

Do not go up on the roof in bad weather. It's slippery and dangerous. When the rain stops and the roof surface is dry, you can examine it. Be sure to take proper safety measures. Wear rubber soled shoes to prevent slipping and make sure your ladder is securely anchored.

If your roof is relatively new and has developed a small leak around the flashing, chances are it can be repaired easily. If the roof is badly worn, limited repairs won't help. Signs of a roof in need of replacement are cracked, curled, brittle or missing shingles.

If in doubt, call in a professional roofer who can conduct a thorough on the roof inspection. He's also a good source of information about material, style and color.

Asphalt shingles, for instance, can often be applied over the old roofing, eliminating the cost of a tearoff. The savings might be invested in the long-lasting durability, low-maintenance, color and dimension that the newest asphalt shingles can offer. Increasingly popular are three-dimensional asphalt shingles in appealing earthtone shades that help relate a home to its environment.

Take the guesswork out of accessories

Anyone who's ever decorated a home or apartment knows that "accessories make the room". It's those clever little splashes of color and interesting objects d'art that give character and personality to a space. But finding exactly the items needed to make your rooms "come alive" can be difficult and time-consuming.

How many times have you opened a magazine and come across something you wanted for your home, but couldn't find out where to buy it?

Have you ever spotted an interesting object in a department store room setting, only to discover it's a "prop" and not for

These are but a few of the frustrating experiences women face when shopping for decorative accessories. Often when you see something you like, it's not available. Or worse yet, you may buy an object and take it home thinking it'll look terrific next to your sofa, only to discover that it isn't right for the room at all.

Now there's a unique service available that eliminates much of the guesswork involved in selecting decorative accessories. Called "Decorator's Guild," the program is sponsored by Armstrong, a company that's been creating home interiors for more than 60 years. For a modest membership fee, you can learn how to accessorize your rooms just like the professionals do.

Three times ayear, Guild members receive an illustrated 96-page color Showcase featuring room-by-room tours of exciting homes and apartments decorated by professional interior designers. The unusual appeal of this magazine - aside from the wealth of decorating information it contains - is that you can order accessories directly from the rooms featured.

Hundreds of beautiful objects from all over the world are offered for sale including paintings, wall-hangings, pottery, planters, table-top art of all kinds, bedspreads, kitchen equipment, clocks, baskets and pillows. Each item is shown in a fully decorated room interior to help you visualize how it might look in your own home. Prices are comparable to what you'd expect to pay in a local store, and all merchandise is backed by an unconditional money-back guarantee.

Even if you elect not to buy pieces from the Showcase, you still can pick up countless ideas and suggestions on how to use your existing accessories in new ways to create dramatic visual effects.

Each issue includes a comprehensive source list identifying the make, model and manufacturer of virtually every item of furnishing shown in the magazine. Guild members also receive hefty discounts on national decorating books and periodicals, plus a quarterly newsletter fro. Armstrong highlighting current trends in home

A one-year membership in Decorator's Guild costs less than $11 and is open to anyone in the continental United States. For information on how to join, write to Armstrong Decorator's Guild, Lancaster, Penna. 17604.

Buying freezers: get money's worth

More and more families are buying food freezers and it is vitally important to know how to get the most for your money.

For instance, the location and type of the freezer should be considered before purchasing one.
Since the location of a food freezer can have a considerable effect on its cost of operation and how well it works, there are some important guidelines suggested by consumer representatives of Hot-upright or chest-type freezer, the ideal location is a cool, dry, well-ventilated area that is not in direct sunlight.

The freezer should never be placed in a room that becomes especially hot in summer or in the winter. Why? Because too hot a location can add to your operating costs.

Unless you have a model with forced-draft air circulation, you should avoid niches or locations with cabinets on three sides. This situation can block the movement of air necessary to remove heat extracted from the storage cabinet.

When space is at a premium, as in many kitchens, experts advise the upright freezer might be more desirable. The chest-type, taking up much floor space, is generally more suitable for a basement or garage.
